PRESIDENT'S COMMENTS

President McClain, Robert Delaney (B.S. 1951) and his wife, Mary, visit prior to a brunch for NMSU alumni held in Des Moines on Oct. 6. The brunch was held prior to the NMSU/Drake football game. Delaney served as official Iowa host for the brunch which was attended by more than 75 NMSU Alumni and their guests.

My contacts with alumni this fall have been most rewarding: the reception at Des Moines before the Drake game, and visits with alumni at Parents Day, Homecoming, and the reception held in conjunction with the teachers' meeting in St. Louis. Additionally, I have heard from many of you by letter and by phone during the past six months. Our spirits are lifted by your loyalty and your faithfulness. Would that every former student and/or graduate of Kirksville could experience the joy of serving his/her old school!

Incidentally, E.L. McNeely, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the Wickes Corporation, San Diego, California, was on campus this past month as an Executive in Residence. The following are comments from him after his visit:

"The visit was a highlight of the year and I hope you gathered that I thoroughly enjoyed myself and trust that I was at least a little help for the students...Thank you for the opportunity and I will look forward to another visit in the future."

E.L. has been a supporter of the University with his valuable time and his money. From a more recent graduate, Gary Hollingsworth, Controller of Wetterau Food Services, I had a nice letter. He writes as follows:

"I regret having not been able to attend the reception November 15, 1979, at the Convention Plaza in St. Louis. Unfortunately, I had made previous commitments. However, I am most appreciative of being remembered and invited.

Please give my best to ___ and ___. They both were extremely patient and considerate during those hours I sat in their classes. I understand ___ continues with the University. I think the University benefits from his association. I know I certainly benefited from the time I spent with him."

I appreciate my many contacts with alumni. I hope that these few words from alumni will inspire others of you to renew your relationship with your alma mater. Let me know personally how we can be of better service to you and your family.

Finally, I would be remiss if I did not express my profound appreciation for the yeoman efforts of Russ Harrison through the years. Russ has assumed the responsibilities formerly held by Ken Sykes and will serve as a consultant in alumni matters. I know all of you join me in expressing our thanks and appreciation to Russ for his years of faithful service.

Alumnus elected to Japanese House

Dear Sir:

This brings you information from Okinawa, Japan; that a KSTC graduate in Okinawa was elected Oct. 7, 1979, to the House of Representatives of the Japanese Diet (parliament). He is 52-year-old Shinjun Oshiro (Bill), a 1955 graduate who majored in political science.

Okinawa, under the U.S. Civil Administration up to May 1972, had sent over 1,000 students to U.S. colleges and universities since 1950 under the U.S. aid scholarship program. Bill Oshiro is the only one of these former students in the U.S.A. who won a seat in the Japanese Diet.

He was elected a member of the lower house at his first attempt, following his 14 years in the local legislature. Bill Oshiro belongs to the ruling pro-American Liberal Democratic party of Japan. He is presently vice president of the local chapter of LDP. In 1965, he was first elected to the Legislature of the Rynbyn Islands, the Prefectural Assembly of Okinawa since 1972. He was serving the fourth term in the local assembly when he ran for the lower house.

While he was a KSTC student he was very active as president of International Club; he also represented KSTC at a U.N. meeting of students. He completed his KSTC studies in three years graduating with a B.A. degree.

He is presently residing at 293-3 Kokogura, Naka City, Okinawa, Japan.

Your arrangement to pass on this information through KSTC news media is highly appreciated.

Sincerely,

K. Asato
1957 Graduate of KSTC

News clippings welcome

Dear Secretary:

As a retirement hobby, I send news articles about Penn Staters, my alma mater, to the Alumni Association. Unfortunately, most articles concern death.

Occasionally, I will send items to other schools for record purposes. I believe that you prefer to get information from more than one source than to hear nothing.

Sincerely,

Lee Fencil

NMSU--A family affair

Just a note: My brother William (Bill) L. Thurman, who attended KSTC in about 1938-40 and was a graduate of KCOM, died suddenly of a heart attack in San Francisco on Aug. 7, 1978. He operated 3 doctor's offices in Tulsa, Oklahoma, for many years. Wife Imogene and daughter Pattie Jayne Thurman Sturdy and her husband survive him as well as brother Karl, sister Mary Evelyn, and mother Nellie M.--all graduates of KSTC. I was in first graduate program, class of summer 1947. Words can't express the great feelings we all had for both Dr. Walter H. and Maurine Ryle. They were at the very top of our list of human beings. My son, Billy, was killed in 1971 after his freshman year at college; my daughter, Karladine, graduated and then graduated from KCOM; Nadine, my wife, got her masters in guidance there. So, Kirksville has a deep place in our hearts.

Sincerely,

Karl E. Thurman

An active alumnus

Dear Mr. Harrison,

Have just read the most recent edition of the NEMOSCOPE. Have written notes to those who were in the College when I was. I did not know their addresses until you published them. The older I get, just celebrated my 76th, the more I want to visit with those with whom I spent earlier years.

I have been selected as delegate from Arizona to the White House Conference on Libraries being held in Washington in November.

I have now been retired since January 1975. And, I have never been more busy. But, more important than that, every minute of it is a real joy. I do the reading and writing necessary to prepare about two speeches a month; am active in several social and civic groups; and climb a small mountain for about fifty minutes every day.

My only worry is the future of this great country of ours. After all, I have twelve grandchildren. Not just sure about the number of great-grandchildren.

Cordially,

New life member

Enclosed is my check to cover the balance due on my life membership in the NMSU Alumni Association.

I enjoy the NEMOSCOPE very much as it is about the only contact I have with old "KSTC."

Someday I hope to visit Kirksville again. I'm sure I would find many changes in the past 15 years.

Keep up the good work!

J.C. Wright memorial

Dear Dr. McClain:

A group of superintendents of schools in Iowa became close friends and we called ourselves "The Hawkeye Eight" referring to the charter members. J.C. Wright was one of those eight. As you might guess he was held in high esteem by this circle of men.

Enclosed find a check for $100 sent to NEMSU for a memorial that will continue - in the name of J.C. Wright. This might be as part of a student loan program or as the J.C. Wright Student Loan Fund.

I am certain that his wife, Betty, and his son and daughter, James and Patricia, will be pleased to hear of this memorial from the Hawkeye Eight. The names are listed below:

Earle Berge, Fort Dodge
Dwight Davis, Des Moines
Harry Eastman, Charles City (ret.)
Joe Gettys, Oskaloosa (ret.)
C. Hoglan, Marshalltown (ret.)
A.A. Johnson, Muscatine (ret.)
Harry McPhail, Ames (ret.)
Richard Schuchert, Spirit Lake (ret.)
Frank Stone, Keokuk (now at The University of Iowa)

Sincerely,

Franklin D. Stone for the Hawkeye Eight

25 years of guiding and counseling

by Diane M. Davis
Student Staff Writer

SILVER ANNIVERSARY HONOREES--Above, left, Howard P. Skinner (M.A. 1954), first graduate of the counseling and guidance program, greets President Charles J. McClain (left) at the 25th anniversary celebration of the program. Skinner, now retired, lives in Kirksville. Right, Gwendolyn Hall (M.A. 1978) of Ottumwa, Iowa, was honored as the 1,000th graduate of the program.

Many "firsts" were celebrated at the 25th anniversary of the counseling and guidance program Saturday evening, Aug. 4, at Northeast Missouri State University. About 100 persons attended the celebration.

Special guests for the reception and dinner in the Student Union Building were the first graduate of the program, Howard P. Skinner (M.A. 1954) of Kirksville, and the 1,000th graduate, Gwendolyn Hall (M.A. 1978) of Ottumwa, Iowa.

Dr. James L. Kern, a former guidance and counseling educator from Winona, Minn., was the featured speaker.

"We were the first of the regional universities in Missouri to have our own graduate program (in counseling and guidance). The others had cooperative programs with the University of Missouri system. We were probably the first school of this size to start a program and also one of the first to offer a major for the elementary school level," said Dr. Robert Wright, head of the Testing Office.

In 1958 Wright became head of the Division of Student Personnel Services, from which the guidance program evolved. For several years only the secondary school guidance program was offered during the summer session. By 1960 the elementary school guidance major had been added, and in 1963 the program was expanded to the academic year.

The program was much different in 1954 when its first student graduated with a double major in guidance and counseling and administration. Few people really understood what guidance and counseling meant then, Skinner said.

"To me it was the common thing of trying to help kids find themselves and help them get oriented to life and learn something besides reading, writing and arithmetic."

Government action in 1958 attempted to build up the counseling program in schools. The National Defense Education Act was passed, setting up counseling requirements for schools.

Enrollment in NMSU's counseling and guidance program increased dramatically. The graduation class rose from eight in 1958 to 22 in 1959.

At first many teachers and administrators resisted the changes because they did not understand what was really being asked of them.

"Legislators should have come down to brass tacks and said, 'You have to guide and counsel these kids rather than just scold them,'" Skinner said.

Many teachers did not know how to use the information that counselors gave them from tests such as the California Intelligence Test, which was the standard test of the time. Students with high IQ scores were automatically urged to go on to a liberal arts college, with little regard for their personal vocational goals.

"It (my major) helped me in that I was beginning to see the light about what it was all about. We don't want to make something fancy and overpowering out of guidance. We want to make it simple and direct so kids can understand it," Skinner said. "Kids have to know the counselor is sincere."

Skinner's jobs have included director of guidance and counseling at Lamar, Mo.; teacher at several schools; superintendent of schools at Madison, Mo.; and vocational counselor at Rockford, Ill. He is 77. Now retired, his hobby is wood-working--carving wood and repairing wooden furniture at his home at 915

N. Florence.

About 70 students yearly graduate with the master's degree in counseling and guidance. Approximately 3½ percent of NMSU's 28,000 graduates hold the degree.

"One thing that's helped us keep our numbers up is that we have not limited ourselves to just educational aspects and have opened up opportunities for other kinds of people," Wright said.

The counseling and guidance major has four options--Missouri School Counselor Certification, School Counselor Certification (Other States), Counseling Majors Not Seeking School Certification and Guidance or Personnel Services (Non-Counseling). Most students earn their degree in 2 to 2½ summer sessions.

The third and fourth options help prepare students for careers as psychologists, psychometrists, social workers, probation officers, speech pathologists, employment counselors, child study clinicians, and other areas in which school certification is not required.

NMSU was also among the first to teach a class in Group Procedures in Guidance, said Dr. Gordon Richardson, head of the Education Division. "Our program is very good. I think we have some unique qualities," he said. The Teaching Skills Center's video tape capabilities, for example, are utilized to help counseling and guidance majors evaluate themselves in problem-solving situations.

Although the program has grown and facilities have changed since Skinner received his degree in 1954, the goal of helping students to adjust and to find their place in the world has remained the same throughout a quarter century.

Tri Sigs' energy cuts kilowatts

The women of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority at Northeast Missouri State University in Kirksville went on a diet Nov. 5-10. But it was kilowatts, not calories, that they cut.

Attempting to reduce energy consumption in their campus residence hall, the sorority members sponsored an "Energy Diet Week" Nov. 5-10. Each day of the week was designated for conserving some type of energy "eater."

The week began with "Munchless Monday," in which no one was permitted to use popcorn poppers, hot pots or little fryers. The week continued with "Tuneless Tuesday," all stereos and radios were turned off; "Waterless Wednesday," no usage of washing machines or dryers; "Tubeless Thursday," no watching of television; "Fridgeless Friday," refrigerators were not opened; and "Shadowless Saturday," minimal usage of lights.

Dee Dee Balliu, sophomore from Kansas City, says the sorority got the idea for the project after Gov. Joseph Teasdale called for a 10 percent reduction of energy consumption in all public buildings.

"We hadn't really noticed anyone else on campus 'energy dieting' so we thought if we started hopefully others would follow," Balliu says.

Sigma Sigma Sigma President Laura Waters, senior, was excited about the amount of enthusiasm shown by members.

"I think we all realize that energy conservation depends on all of us working together. Sometimes we get kind of careless about leaving lights on because we don't have to pay electricity bills," Waters says.

She hopes some of the energy dieting habits are carried over by members throughout the year.

The sorority project is being co-sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources Division of Energy with Teasdale issuing a proclamation honoring the event. Although university officials say there is no way at present to measure how much energy is saved, the University will soon purchase equipment to measure energy consumption in each building on campus.

Although the women of Sigma Sigma Sigma may feel cutting kilowatts is easier than cutting calories, one member said, "by using fewer electrical appliances such as popcorn poppers, we cut calories as well."

Country boy makes it big in small-business world

by Mary Rhodes
Student Staff Writer

HOMECOMING BANQUET SPEAKER--Bernard Browning, president and chairman of General Business Services, Inc., offered his advice to a class at NMSU on how to be successful. He urged the students to get as much education as they could. The Browning, Mo., native attended NMSU from 1939-41, when he enlisted in the Navy.

Being the product of a one-room country school in a small Midwestern farm region doesn't stop someone from succeeding in the business world. Bernard Browning, 1979 Homecoming Banquet speaker, proved the story is true.

In 1962 Browning helped found General Business Services, Inc., a small-business consulting firm. Today he serves as president and chairman of the board of the firm which has 1,150 franchise representatives in 50 states, pioneering a new concept of business counseling on a mass basis.

Although Browning never graduated from NMSU, he entered the University in 1939 at the age of 15 on a Regent's Scholarship, leaving two years later to enlist in the Navy at the start of World War II. After additional studies at the University of Richmond and Georgetown University, he bypassed the bachelor's degree by being admitted to Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration where he received an M.B.A. degree at the age of 23. He later pursued a doctoral program at New York University.

A native of Browning, a small Northeast Missouri town named after his family who have resided there for four generations, Browning attended a one-room school, Knifong Gove, and graduated from Browning High School in 1939.

While a student in Kirksville, he was elected president of Alpha Phi Omega chapter at the age of 17, becoming the youngest chapter president of the service fraternity at that time.

The front page of an Index in the early 40s is quoted as labeling Browning as the "youngest boy on campus on his way to success."

Browning joked with his audience at the Homecoming Banquet saying he had no problem securing dates with beauty queens despite his youthful age of 15. He later figured out why he succeeded over the macho football players in attracting the coeds. He had aroused their motherly instinct.

Browning accomplished many things early in his life. During 28 years of active and reserve duty he rose through the ranks, in 1972, to Rear Admiral, the second youngest officer selected for the rank in the history of the United States Navy Supply Corp.

A strong believer in the free enterprise system, Browning pointed out in his Homecoming address the many ways government has intervened in our free market society.

"You would be shocked to discover how government is involved in everything you do," Browning said. "Freedom is like clean air, it's not missed until it's gone. We must preserve and not destroy it."

Among his many appointments and affiliations, he was selected to be a member of the Citizens Committee on Paperwork Reduction which was organized at the request of the White House as a group to help implement the recommendations of the Paperwork Commission created by Congress two years earlier.

As a member of this group he saw how the federal bureaucracy has grown 500 percent since he entered college and bureaucracy's effects on private business. He told the alumni examples of how the red tape created by our system causes such things as an eight-to-10 year waiting period for drugs to be approved for consumer usage with the American Pharmaceutical Association issuing reports of 120,000 pages on some drugs.

Browning told the alumni as educated people to be aware of governmental affairs and actions around them and hold public officials accountable for their actions.

Browning also spoke to a class at NMSU to offer his advice for their success. He told students they should always give their employer the "baker's dozen."

"Whatever field you enter into, do all that is expected of you and then do some more. Don't worry about getting rewarded for it, because you'll discover it will all come back to you. Your individual attitude and motivation will determine your success," Browning said.

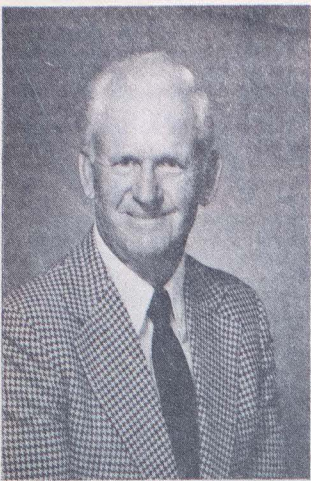

He also told the class that each was wearing a blank sheet of paper on their backs called "reputation."

"People are writing on that pad on your back in their mind. You are developing your reputation everyday," he said.

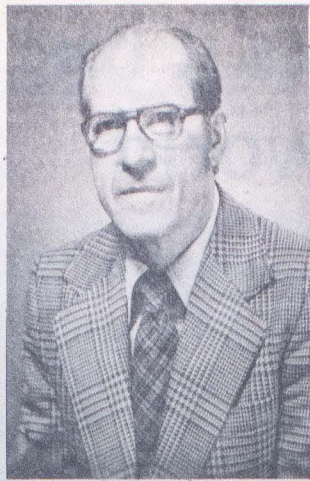

Browning urged the students to get all the education they could, but said it wouldn't be worth anything if they didn't produce.

Browning is married to Adeline Townsend Rogers of Dillon, S.C. They have four children: Frances, a junior at Mount Holyoke; Virginia, a freshman at Southern Methodist; John, a high school senior; and Lawrence, a junior high student.

Browning said he has faith in America to ensure and protect our free economic market place. He said he is confident students today attending colleges in small Midwestern communities have perhaps even a much greater chance to have a success story like his own.

10 new emeriti retire this year

Eight faculty and two staff members have received the emeritus title at Spring and Summer Commencements at Northeast Missouri State University.

Those receiving the new titles upon retirement are: Victor Cochran, assistant professor emeritus of science; Dr. Winferd Durham, professor emeritus of business administration; Dr. Harold Mickelson, professor emeritus of business administration; Mrs. Helen Rieger, museum curator emeritus; Dr. Will Selser, professor emeritus of science; Ralph Shain, assistant professor emeritus of practical arts; Kenneth Sykes, director emeritus of the Student Union; Mrs. Madelene Sykes, instructor emeritus in English; William Unger, professor emeritus of art; and Mrs. Dollie Wilson, instructor emeritus in English.

They join the emeritus faculty that now consists of 57 members who have been recognized by the NMSU Board of Regents for 10 years or more of service to the University.

Victor Cochran—He retired on May 11 after 13 years of service to the University in the Science Division. His future plans include farming near Milan.

His education includes a B.S. in 1941 from NMSU and an M.B.S. in 1962 from the University of Colorado.

Before he came to NMSU in 1966, he taught science at Milan High School from 1964-66 and from 1949-54. He served as principal and teacher at Galt High School from 1956-65.

He is married to Betty Cochran, assistant professor of business and office education at NMSU. They have three children, Vicky, David and Martha.

Dr. Winferd Durham—Dr. Durham retired in August after 13 years as professor of business administration at NMSU.

Prior to coming to NMSU in 1966, Dr. Durham taught business subjects for seven years and was counselor for eight years at Bonne Terre (Mo.) High School. He served three years in the former Army Air Force and has taught two years at Springfield Draughon Business College.

His education includes a 1951 B.S.E. from Southwest Missouri State University at Springfield, a 1961 counselor's certificate from the University of Missouri-Columbia and a 1973 doctor of education from the University of Northern Colorado at Greeley. He earned two M.A. degrees and an Ed.S. in 1955 and 1960 from George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tenn.

On Aug. 23, Dr. Durham and his wife, Gwendolyn, moved to Farmington, where their relatives live.

Mrs. Durham retired emeritus last spring after 12 years of teaching in the Business Division, concluding a teaching career of 45 years in Missouri schools.

During their retirement, the Durhams plan to travel. Dr. Durham indicated he may also do some visiting teaching and extension course teaching. He is a member of the NMSU Alumni Association.

Dr. Harold Mickelson—During his 25 years as professor of business administration, Dr. Mickelson never missed a class because of illness or accident.

Dr. Mickelson, 61, and his wife, Leona, moved to Mesa, Ariz., on Aug. 14. Their son, Eric, is a college freshman there.

Dr. Mickelson had authored three booklets on medical secretaryship and physician's office management, which were published by the American Medical Association and several newspapers in the United States and Denmark. He had worked on many academic committees and was active in forming the Business Administration Club, which he sponsored.

His B.S.E. and M.A. were received in 1949 and 1950 from NMSU. At Indiana University he earned his Ed.D. degree in 1956. Dr. Mickelson did post-doctoral study at Arizona State University, Washington University, St. Louis University and Joplin Junior College.

Before coming to NMSU Dr. Mickelson worked in retail and wholesale management, personnel administration, the postal service and the military.

Mrs. Helen Rieger—Curator of the E.M. Violette Museum, Mrs. Rieger retired July 1 after 21 years of service to NMSU. She also served as University archivist from 1965-77.

Her education includes an A.B. from the University of Missouri-Columbia and graduate study at Pomona College in Claremont, Calif.

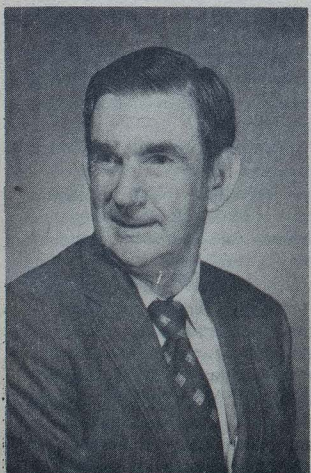

She taught in Chicago and at Kirksville Junior High School previously.

Her husband was the late Dr. Wray M. Rieger, dean emeritus of instruction, professor emeritus of organic chemistry and former head of the Science Division at NMSU.

Children are Mrs. Helen Anderson (B.S., A.B. 1950) of Dayton, Ohio, and Wray M. Rieger (B.S.E. 1965, M.A. 1966) of Trotwood, Ohio.

Dr. Will Selser—He retired to Interlachen, Fla., after 13 years of service to the University. He received his emeritus title at Spring Commencement.

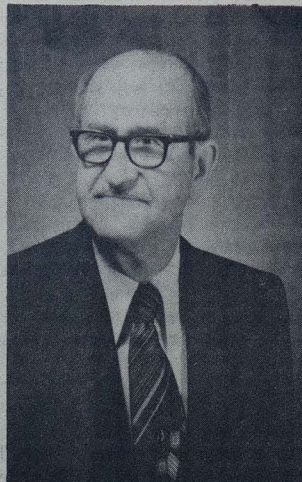

Dr. Selser studied at the University of Florida, Gainesville, to earn a B.S. in Biology in 1946 and a B.A. in Agriculture in 1948. He received an Ed.D. in Science Education from the University of Florida in 1962. He also continued his education for 18 months at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville.

Dr. Will Selser

Ralph Shain

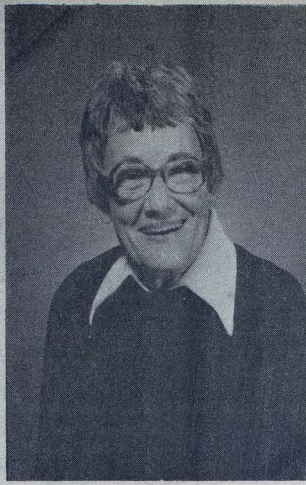

Kenneth Sykes

Mrs. Madelene Sykes

William Unger

Mrs. Dollie Wilson

In summer 1972 he was chosen for a fellowship at Cornell University by the Shell Foundation.

Dr. Selser has been an office manager in oil fields, paymaster for a construction company, an independent contractor in pest control and a campaign worker for Sen. Claude Pepper in Florida. He also taught agriculture for three years in public schools in Arkansas and Florida.

He and his wife, Myrtis, have a daughter, Sandra, and twin sons, Will and Robert.

Ralph E. Shain-- After 34 years of service to the University, he retired Aug. 10 as assistant professor emeritus of practical arts.

He was then appointed to the Board of Regents to replace Sam Burk, whose term expired. Shain's goal as Regent is to better NMSU's relationship with the people of Kirksville and surrounding area.

Shain will also continue as chairman of the board of directors at the First National Bank of Kirksville.

He owned Shain Hardware Store and Shain Boat and Motors, both in Kirksville, for 25 years. From 1944-1946 he served in the U.S. Air Force.

Shain received his B.S.E. in 1940 and M.A. in 1961 from NMSU. He has done graduate work at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

His wife is the former Emma Lou Mills, a 1940 NMSU graduate. They have two daughters, Linda and Dorothy Jean, who is a senior at NMSU.

Kenneth Sykes--He retired on Sept. 30 after more than 30 years of service to the University in many jobs.

Sykes joined the faculty of Northeast Missouri State Teachers College on Sept. 1, 1947, as the first audio-visual education director.

His educational preparation includes an A.A. in 1937 and an A.B. in 1939 from Northeast and graduate study at Indiana University.

In early years of service he was faculty sponsor of the yearbook, college photographer, news bureau director, public relations director, international student adviser and alumni director.

In 1950 he was named the University's first director of admissions continuing duties in public relations and college publications.

In 1956 he was appointed administrative assistant to the president, working with the late Dr. Walter H. Ryle. He also was assigned duties as sponsor of the Student Senate, which he continued to fulfill until retirement.

Sykes became director of the Student Union in 1965 while the building was under construction. He served as Student Union director and administrative assistant to the president until February 1967 when he devoted full time to the Student Union.

He is married to Madelene Sykes, instructor emeritus of English. They have two daughters, Claire Shreve (B.S.E. 1973) of Macon and Sandi Singleton of Kirksville.

Mrs. Madelene Sykes--She completed her career at the University this summer after 15 years of service to the University.

In addition to her work at NMSU, she has served as copyeditor for the Kirksville Daily Express from 1939-42 and reporter for the Hannibal Courier-Post from 1937-39. Mrs. Sykes also was personal secretary to former U.S. Sen. Frank P. Briggs of Macon from 1944-47 in Washington, D.C.

She taught for six years at Kirksville High School.

Her education includes an A.E. from Hannibal LaGrange College in 1934, and a B.S. in Education in 1942 and an M.A. in 1964 from NMSU.

She has published two articles in the Missouri English Bulletin on "Evaluation in Teaching Literature" and "Mark Twain's Portrayal of Women," an excerpt from her master's thesis of the same title. For the past four years she has taught a class on "Mark Twain's Western Experience" in the summers.

William Unger--He has been appointed as the first permanent artist-in-residence in the Fine Arts Division at NMSU upon his retirement on May 11 after 19 years of service.

As artist-in-residence he will teach a master class in painting and will serve as an art consultant to the University.

The Austrian-born artist studied at the Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna graduating with the title of "Akademischer Maler" or the equivalent to a Master of Fine Arts in 1937. At the same time, he received a teaching degree in fine arts education from the University of Vienna.

Recently he was honored with the Austrian Cross of Honor for Science and Art for distinguished achievement as an artist.

To add to his background, Unger spent a year at the Academie Des Beaux Arts in Paris and several months at the Academia De Belle Arte in Rome.

As a free-lance artist, Unger painted portraits and other projects in Vienna, Paris, London, Holland, West Germany and Switzerland from 1945-54. He came to the United States in 1954 continuing his work.

Before joining the NMSU faculty in 1960, he was associated with art extension projects of the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

He and his wife, Heddy, will continue to reside in Kirksville.

Mrs. Dollie Wilson--Mrs. Wilson received her emeritus title at Spring Commencement on May 11 after 13 years of service to the University.

She has taught 31 years including rural schools in Ralls and Lewis counties as well as Perry and Hannibal.

Her education includes a B.S.E. in 1943 and an M.A. in 1965 from NMSU.

Among her honors, she recently was chosen as Cardinal Key service organization's 1979 Woman of the Year. Alpha Phi Sigma scholastic honorary elected her as Outstanding Educator of the Year in the spring.

Mrs. Wilson has served three times as chairwoman of the Northeast Missouri Teachers of English.

She is married to Rolland H. Wilson of LaBelle where they will continue to reside. They have two children, Al Wilson (B.S. 1970) and Anne Morgan (B.S.E. 1973, M.A. 1975).

Personnel shift occurs in alumni directorship

NEW RESPONSIBILITIES--R. Russell Harrison (left), former director of public relations and alumni affairs, is now running the Student Union Building. He is taking over for Kenneth Sykes (right), who retired in September. Thomas R. Shroul Jr. has been named interim director of public relations and alumni activities.

With the retirement of Kenneth Sykes as director emeritus of the Student Union Building, Russ Harrison has been named director of public services, an appointment that includes the operation of the Union facilities.

Thomas R. Shroul Jr., director of external affairs, has been named by University President Charles J. McClain to head the functions of public relations and alumni affairs on an interim basis.

A graduate of the University of Missouri-Columbia, Shroul received a bachelor of journalism degree in 1970. He has been employed at NMSU since 1971 when he was named staff assistant in public relations.

Shroul is married to the former Debra Kitts (B.S.E. 1975, M.A. 1978). They have one son, Thomas III.

Col. Williams given Legion of Merit

Col. Murray W. Williams, head of the Military Science Division, retired in August after serving NMSU for four years in that position.

Williams, who has served in the U.S. Army for 31 years, was presented the Legion of Merit award at a reception held for him and two other division faculty retirees in July. The award is given to members of the U.S. Armed Forces who have demonstrated exceptionally meritorious conduct in a position of high responsibility.

While at NMSU, Williams was a professor of military science. He also was an adviser to Cadet Christian Fellowship and Alpha Phi Alpha social fraternity.

Before moving to Kirksville, he was Deputy Director of Human Resources Development on the U.S. Army general staff in the Pentagon. In that position he was involved in establishing Army policy for equal opportunity and race relations, alcohol and drug abuse prevention and control, pay, housing, law enforcement and leadership. In Vietnam, he served as Deputy Commander of the 6,000-member 173rd Airborne Brigade.

Williams plans to travel in Europe and the Middle East with newly commissioned officers in the Officers' Christian Fellowship.

Residence halls overflow in 1979 as they did 21 years ago

by Thomas R. ShROUT Jr.
Director of External Affairs

When 100 male students at NMSU found out that they would start college living in the Oak Tree Inn this fall, a crisis hit campus unlike anything since 1958. That year male students waiting for the completion of Brewer Hall lived in Ophelia Parrish Gymnasium, Laughlin Building Gymnasium and temporary veterans housing rather than in a motel.

The major difference between the fall of 1958 and the fall of 1979 was in 1979 there were no residence halls being planned to take care of the overcrowding. NMSU doesn't anticipate building University housing in the near future.

In the fall of 1958 Carroll Waganer (B.S. 1962) of Pawnee, Ill., lived in the old army barracks that were just east of Pershing Building while he waited for his room to be finished in Brewer Hall.

"We stayed there six weeks waiting for our room to be finished. There were six of us in two little rooms," Waganer recalled.

"We about froze to death. It was one of those early cold falls and (Al) Holzmeier (then director of housing) wouldn't buy any heating oil. One guy had an electric blanket, so we took turns using it," Waganer said.

Classes start about one month earlier now than they did in 1958, so the students in overflow housing this fall had heat to contend with rather than the cold. However, the 1979 overflow students had a modern motel with swimming pool and air conditioning to ward off the elements.

This fall, students also were housed in residence hall assistants' rooms, (normally occupied by one resident assistant); in Ryle, Centennial and Missouri hall lounges; on the fourth floor of Grim Hall; and in houses that have been purchased on the perimeter of campus.

Offices that were once in the residence halls have been moved and the space converted to student living. Only the Military Science Division on the first floor of Nason Hall and the Placements and Counseling offices on the first floor of Blanton Hall remain as vestiges of a time when residence hall living was less popular.

Why the crowding in the residence halls? In 1958, there were not enough places for students to live with the rapid increase in student enrollment.

In 1979, enrollment has gone up (now slightly more than 6,000), but when there was a similar enrollment in 1971, there were plenty of spaces in the residence halls.

"When students started leaving the residence halls in the early '70s we simply had to evaluate why," Dr. Terry B. Smith, dean of students, said. "We realized it was a matter of not doing an effective job of selling our product."

Since the mid-'70s, residence halls have provided such features as tutoring services; Residence Hall Week; and programs on topics such as buying insurance, selecting stereo equipment, marriage and divorce.

Some facilities have been remodeled, including the addition and renovation of lounges in Ryle, Dobson and Missouri halls.

Another factor Dean Smith points out is inflation. Northeast's residence hall system has been able to keep costs down.

In 1958 student wages were 50 cents per hour and the cost of room and board was $540 per academic year. For the fall of 1979, room and board was $1,020, about double, while student wages have increased more than fivefold to $2.60 per hour.

"Any way you cut it residence hall living is less expensive than living off campus," Smith said.

The result has been that about 70 percent of the students who are living in the residence halls and who are not graduating choose to return to the halls to live.

Holzmeier, now station manager of KIRX/KRXL radio in Kirksville, says he has mixed feelings about those days when so many residence halls were being built.

"A real esprit de corps developed among the kids living in those crowded conditions while dormitories were built through the 1960s."

In 1961, Holzmeier recalled, students slept on mattresses in the upper floors of Dobson Hall while waiting for the first floor to be completed.

In 1965 it was back to the Ophelia Parrish Gym and the Laughlin Gym plus various other college housing while Missouri Hall was being completed.

In the fall of 1968 women doubled up in Centennial and Ryle halls while rooms were being completed in Centennial.

Joe Hasenstab (B.S.E. 1960) of Westwood, N.J., was dorm father in Laughlin Gym. Hasenstab recalls that he had been visiting the Tap Room one evening before getting back to the old gym.

"I ran a super straight dorm and expected no funny business out of anyone. It was near the end of our stay in the gym so I decided to have some fun. I turned every alarm clock ahead by an hour.

"At about 5:30 a.m. the alarm clocks started going off and everyone began to dutifully go off to shave and shower. After about 15 minutes the guys discovered that it was an hour earlier than what they had thought and were they mad," Hasenstab recalled.

He says that now, 21 years later, is the first time he has publicly revealed who the culprit was.

What's ahead for student housing?

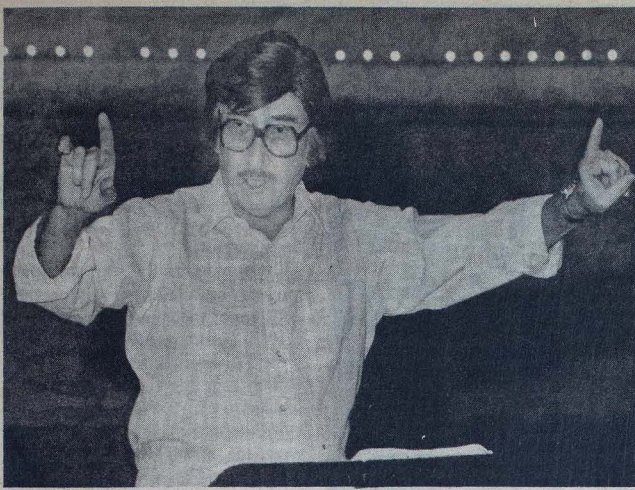

Presently no new residence halls are on the horizon. With a decline for the next decade in the number of high school graduates, a full residence hall in 1981 or '82 could be vacant by '84 or '85.

University officials are studying ways to cope with the housing overflow. One of the best solutions is to make sure that every student admitted to NMSU is sure he or she wants and is capable of obtaining a college education, Smith said.

"If a student enrolls as a freshman and stays for only a semester before deciding college isn't the thing for him or her, he has taken up a space in the residence halls that might have been available for a student who would successfully complete a program.

"Admission policies and practices have a close relationship to helping us solve our housing problems. We have the toughest standards among the regional universities in Missouri and they could get tougher," Smith said.

A ONE, AND A TWO, AND--Guest conductor for the Men's Honor Choir Clinic was Dallas Draper (B.S. and B.A. 1939), professor emeritus of music at Louisiana State University. Young men from high schools in Missouri and Illinois attended the clinic.

NMSU graduate conducts Men's Honor Choir Clinic

Dallas Draper (B.S. and BA. 1939) was the guest conductor of the Phi Mu Alpha music honorary Men's Honor Choir Clinic held Oct. 10 at Northeast Missouri State University.

About 82 young men from Missouri and Iowa high schools attended the one-day workshop.

Draper, professor emeritus of music at Louisiana State University, received a B.S. and B.A. in Music from Northeast. He received a master's degree from LSU where he served for 28 years as director of choral activities and chairman of the voice department. He has done graduate work at the Eastman School of Music and at New York University.

Having a national reputation as a choral conductor and music educator, Draper has been a visiting conductor at numerous workshops and clinics throughout the country. As well as conducting the Northeast clinic, a one day rehearsal, one night concert workshop, he directed the Sounds of America Chorale in 1972, a group of American singers that toured Europe for three weeks, and the New York All State Chorus in 1973.

Presently, Draper is a member of the Voice Committee for the Music Teachers National Association. He is also an adjunct professor of music at the University of Missouri at Kansas City Conservatory of Music and director of music at the Village United Presbyterian Church in Prairie Village, Kan. Draper is also a visiting professor at several universities including NMSU.

Draper is married to the former Edith LaBonta, a 1941 graduate of NMSU with a B.S. in Education. Both she and Draper were members of the University choir while students at Northeast; however, they did not meet until later when both were teaching in St. Louis. The Drapers now reside in Overland Park, Kan.

37 teachers initiated into Phi Delta Kappa

The satisfaction of achievement and attaining goals was the topic of an address made by 1st District State Rep. Estil V. Fretwell of Canton at the initiation banquet and ceremony of Phi Delta Kappa education honorary Aug. 3 at Northeast Missouri State University.

Fretwell spoke to about 40 members and 37 initiates of the NMSU chapter of Phi Delta Kappa. His speech was followed by the initiation, when the PDK ideals of service, research and leadership in education were explained. Membership in the organization is by invitation only.

By hometown, the new PDK members are:

Kirksville--Stephanie Burk, Deborah Duncan Coco, Marcalene Cody, Donna Lynn Fisher, Margaret Hindman and Betty Branson Porter.

Missouri--Theresa Biondo and Theo Fox, Florissant; Al Bourisaw, Mehlville; Sarah Dannar, Trenton; Eugene Eickmeier, St. Louis; Della Ellingsworth, Chillicothe; Bea Goodin, Louisiana; Deborah Humphrey, Centralia; Marjorie Menke, St. Charles; Diane Pulse, Plevna; Joann Rhodes, Donald Riddle Sr. and Mary Riddle, Brunswick; Carole Riley, Springfield; Patricia Seifert, O'Fallon; Debbie Sportsman, Hazelwood; John Tollenaar III, West Plains; and Danna Young, Senath.

Iowa--Dale Barnhill, Perry; Dave Dirksen, New Hampton; Joel Franken, Denison; Peg Haluska, Albia; Margaret Kelly, Fairfield; Carolyn Leonard, Des Moines; Donald Offermann, Dyersville; Richard Persoon, Bloomfield; Arnold Van Wardhuizen and Deb Wollenhaupt; Ottumwa; and James Walter, Agency.

Illinois--Rebecca Dye, Quincy; and Edward Horack, Mendon.

Business expert speaks on marketing, management

Gilbert Richards, chairman and chief executive officer of The Budd Co., a producer of automotive body components, spoke to faculty and students on business management and marketing Sept. 19 in the Student Union Building at Northeast Missouri State University.

About 250 students attended the two sessions.

Richards has served in his present office since 1971. Previously, he was a product sales manager; vice president of sales for the automotive division; vice president and general manager of the division; and president and general manager of the division.

Prior to joining The Budd Co., Richards worked as district sales manager for Permanente Cement Co.; general sales manager for Kaiser Gypsum Co.; general sales manager for Kaiser Metal Products; and vice president of sales for the Sharples Corp.

Richards' other affiliations include membership on the board of directors of Western Highway Institute; Federal Mogul Corp.; Transport Indemnity Co.; Transport Underwriters Co.; Economic Club of Detroit; and United Foundation.

GETTING THE POINT ACROSS--Gilbert Richards, chairman and chief executive officer of The Budd Co., emphasizes an idea during a news conference held at NMSU on Sept. 19.

Enrollment is up 6.8%

Despite predictions of a nationwide decrease in enrollment at colleges and universities, enrollment at NMSU has increased 6.8 percent from fall 1978, according to figures released from the Missouri Department of Higher Education.

The headcount now stands at 6,041 compared to 5,659 last fall, according to the report. The average increase in enrollment at Missouri four-year colleges and universities is 3.2 percent.

A 16 percent increase in freshmen at Northeast partially accounts for the larger enrollment at NMSU, said Director of Admissions Terry Taylor. The 16 percent increase is substantially higher than the national average of a 1 to 2 percent increase in freshmen.

The University also experienced a 14 percent increase in transfer students and an increase in number of graduate students recruited, said Taylor.

Several factors contribute to the greater retention and recruitment, Taylor said. In the past two years, the average class rank and test scores at Northeast are the best of the regional universities. Having higher quality students aids in retention and recruitment by giving Northeast a good academic reputation.

Before Pershing Arena renovation . . .

1946-48 basketball teams go to nationals

by Peggy Davis
Student Staff Writer

Although the NMSU basketball teams of 1946-48 never had the opportunity to play in the much-improved facilities of Pershing Arena, they still advanced to national competition both years.

Before Pershing Building was completed for the 1959-60 basketball season, the teams played in Kirk Gym, which seated about 1,000 people. Before this, the teams of 1919 through 1924 played in the gym of Laughlin Building.

Though the facilities have been improved with the renovation of Pershing Arena this year, the Kirk facilities were adequate for the team to achieve a 19-game winning streak plus enjoy undefeated seasons in 1947 and 1948 on their home court.

On both teams were the five men who made the records: Robert Lewis (B.S. 1949); Ralph Pink (B.S.E. 1948), professor of physical education at Northeast; Harry Gallatin (B.S.E. 1949); Earl Dodd (B.S. 1949); and John Semanek (B.S.E. 1949).

Pink said their strength, togetherness and teamwork helped them achieve their success. He also pointed out that they were a little more mature than students right out of high school, all having served in World War II before coming to NMSU.

Gallatin, faculty member at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville, said the quintet "had feelings for each other, pride and the will to win."

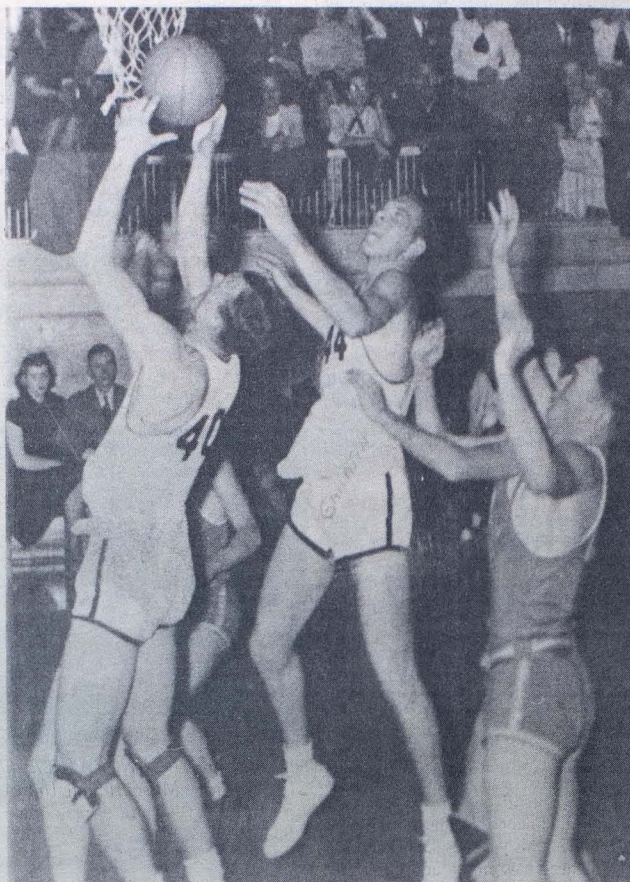

One unusual aspect of the five-member starting team was they all knew each other before they came to Northeast. The five starters had attended the same high school in Wood River, Ill.

After the war, instead of going to different colleges, the quintet decided to go to Northeast and try out for the team under Boyd King's offer. King, NMSU basketball coach from 1946-71, had asked Pink to try out for his team after the war was over. And so, the five started their basketball days at Northeast.

In their first year of basketball, the 1946-47 team won 30 of 32 games in conference and non-conference play. Before the 1946 season, the University had not been very enthusiastic over the basketball program, King said. However, after the team started winning, the campus community packed Kirk Gym to watch the games.

For the first time in NMSU history, the basketball squad advanced to national competition. They made it to the third round of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball (now the NAIA) Tournament before they were eliminated by Arizona State, Flagstaff, 59-55. They won their first two games, defeating Cleveland, Miss., 76-58, and Whittier, Calif., 51-49.

Coach King, whom Gallatin called one of the winningest coaches in basketball, said he thought his team "was as good as any other ball club that participated in the nationals."

He said that four of the starting five had flu the week before the national tournament started.

During the 1947-48 year, the team, composed of the Wood River gang, won 29 of 31 games and advanced to the NAIB Tournament in Kansas City. They lost in the first-round game to Arizona State, Tempe, 68-66. Gallatin said their post-season play was not as successful as it should have been. "We certainly had the caliber of players to win the nationals."

The team was a big team, with the starting quintet having a good height advantage as well as being good competitors, King said.

best teams that NMSU has had," King said. "If I could have had them for three or four years, it would have been the best."

Pink said that the starters usually played only the first half or three quarters of the games since they had usually built up a sizeable lead. The second stringers finished the games.

If a team has a good bench, then one has to play it, King said.

He thought that the 1946-48 teams were the strongest in rebounding. They also were strong in defense.

The championship teams had several people picked for the All-Conference team. Dodd and Gallatin were chosen to the first team in the 1946-47 season. Lewis was picked for the second team, and Pink and Semanek were given honorable mention in the election.

The 1948 squad had Gallatin, Dodd and Lewis picked for the first team. Pink was chosen for the second team.

Pink said that the members of the starting squad did everything together. They even went on dates together—all five of them and their dates.

The "emphasis on the team as a whole" rather than as individuals was one of the main reasons that the team did so well, Pink said. "Respect and understanding for each other" also helped.

After the 1948 season, an agent with the New York Knickerbockers offered contracts to Gallatin and Pink to sign. Pink declined and went to graduate school. However, Gallatin accepted the offer and played for nine years with the Knicks. He later was traded to the Detroit Pistons, where he played one season. Gallatin was the first National Basketball Association player to play in 740 consecutive games. He made the all-star team seven of his 10 seasons of playing.

Gallatin later was named NBA Coach of the Year with the St. Louis Hawks. He also coached one year for the Knicks.

The NMSU teams might have had somewhat of a "homecourt advantage" in Kirk Gym since the Bulldog teams were in a quandary on the road when the gyms they were to play in had a larger playing area, Kenneth Gardner (B.S. 1947), athletic director at Northeast, said. On the road, the team's "depth perception would go haywire".

Gallatin said the teams in the conference called Kirk Gym a "snakepit."

Although the gym may have been an advantage for the Bulldogs, the team still proved they could win on the road, as evidenced by their 19-game winning streak.

Pershing Building and the arena were completed by October 1959. "It was fantastic," Gardner said of the newly-completed facilities in 1959.

According to the Oct. 7, 1959, issue of the Index, "The Pershing Building as now arranged is only the center section of the total proposed building. Other proposed wings include full Olympic swimming pool with Olympic board, bowling alleys, recreation areas, handball courts, women's gymnasium, offices, dressing facilities, dance studio, and an adaptive gymnasium for corrective situations."

Of those proposed additions, NMSU now has a swimming pool, "women's" gym, offices, dressing facilities and dance studio. The bowling alleys are in the Student Union Building. The handball courts are scheduled to be completed by December, Doug Winicker, campus planner, said.

The 1978-79 squad was the third team from Pershing Arena to advance to nationals, playing on the original court and using facilities completed from 1959. Since last season, however, Pershing Arena has received a facelift. Phase I of the Pershing renovation included placing three north-south basketball courts where one east-west court stood, redesigning the locker rooms, moving the weight room from the second floor west of the gymnasium to the former equipment room in the northeast corner of the gym, and moving the equipment room to the area where the faculty dressing room was located.

The center court has a wooden floor and the other two courts have a synthetic tartan surface.

New power-operated bleachers, which have about the same seating capacity as before of 3,200, have been installed and a press box over the east wall has been constructed.

Phase II of the renovation includes the remodeling of the wrestling facilities and the women's gym. The second phase will begin in the spring of 1980.

With the improved facilities, Gardner said he thought the arena will help improve the players somewhat.

Pink said the basketball teams have better playing facilities and better training techniques to improve them.

However, Pink said that the worst emphasis one can put on a team is the technique of "one-on-one. Basketball is a game of five-on-five," one aspect that the 1946-48 teams abided by. "We put the team first."

With the improved basketball playing facilities at NMSU, the future teams of Pershing Arena may achieve the togetherness of the 1946-48 teams that went to nationals twice after their two years of basketball in the "snakepit" gym of Kirk Building.

Kasmann new Board president

NEW REGENT CONGRATULATED--Ralph Shain (left), the new member of the Northeast Missouri State University Board of Regents, is welcomed to the Board by F. William Kasmann, new Board president. Shain is chairman of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank of Kirksville and is assistant professor emeritus of industrial education.

An independent insurance broker, Kasmann was elected president at the Aug. 10 Board meeting. A Columbia resident, Kasmann has been a member of the Board since 1975.

Elected vice president was Mrs. Marilyn Beck of Fulton, a teacher at the Missouri School for the Deaf. Mrs. Marietta Jayne of Kirksville was elected secretary.

Learning center named for alumnus

The Learning Center in Poplar Bluff, Mo., will bear the name of George R. Loughead (B.S. 1920) in recognition of his 32 years as superintendent of schools at Poplar Bluff.

Loughead was born in Putnam County. He received his bachelor's degree in 1920 from Northeast. In 1934, he received his master's degree from the University of Missouri-Columbia.

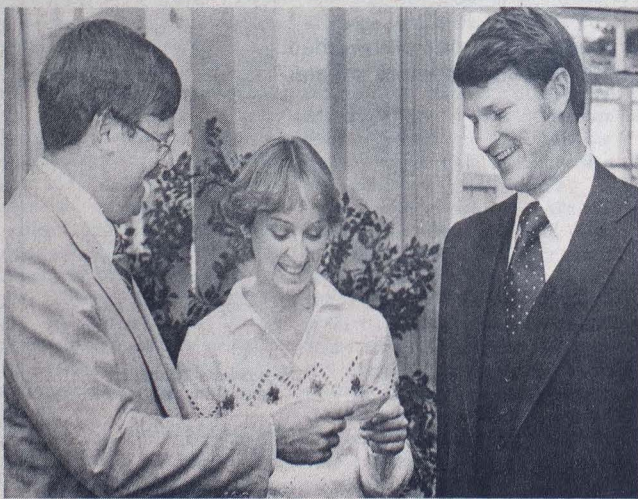

Loughead taught school from 1917-18 in Paris, Mo., before serving in the Army during World War I. From 1919 until 1921 he was superintendent of schools at Powersville, Mo. He also was the superintendent of the Oakville, Iowa, schools from 1921-22. He served as high school principal at Bonne Terre, Mo., for three years before he was appointed as the high school principal for Poplar Bluff in 1926. From 1928-60, he served as the superintendent in Poplar Bluff.

During his years as superintendent, Loughead saw many additions made in the school system. He helped acquire land for the junior high school and athletic field. Several buildings and additions were constructed. Property for two new schools also was obtained under his supervision.

Loughead is married to the former Esther Redmon (B.S. 1921) and they have two children--Dr. John R. Loughead of Poplar Bluff and Mrs. Marjorie Reedy of Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

Loughead is a member of the First Christian Church and a past president of the Kiwanis Club. He also serves on many community committees.

MCGLADREY ACCOUNTING AWARD--Kenneth Slaughter (B.S. 1973), left, and Frank Davey (B.S. 1970) presented Deborah Lewis, senior accounting major, with the 1979-80 I.B. McGladrey Accountancy Award. Slaughter is the manager of the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, office of McGladrey, Hendrickson and Co. public accounting firm that sponsors the award given each fall to an NMSU accounting student. Davey is a partner in that office.

EXECUTIVE-IN-RESIDENCE--E.L. McNeely, chairman and chief executive officer of The Wickes Corp., gave several business-related presentations to students, faculty and staff members on Nov. 19 and 20 at NMSU. Originally from Coffey, McNeely was invited by the Business Division. Students from Coffey pictured with McNeely are (left) Judy Iddings, a senior majoring in business administration, and her sister Marlene, a graduate student majoring in guidance and counseling.

Basketball team shoots for second MIAA crown

by William Cable,
Sports Information Director

A close observer of the basketball scene might consider 1979-80 as a season the Northeast Missouri State Bulldogs would merely try to maintain respectability.

After all, they lost six valuable cogs from the 1978-79 Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship machine. Last year's quintet logged a 20-8 record, was ranked seventh in the final NCAA Division II poll, and participated in the South Central Regional playoffs.

But Willard Sims, who directed NMSU to its first conference title since taking over the coaching reins in 1971-72, isn't writing off the campaign as strictly a rebuilding year. He says the 1979-80 club might turn out to be as good as last season's team.

"If our newcomers can blend with our returnees and the chemistry is there, we might be an influential force in the MIAA race," he maintains. "I believe our recruiting efforts were highly successful. We signed four junior college players and two high school products, and hopefully, we can continue where we left off last season."

The lone returning starter is 6-6 junior forward David Winslow (East St. Louis, Ill. - Public) who led the team in rebounds last year with 9.9 per game, while averaging 12.0 points (third on the club). Winslow was also named to the all-conference honorable mention list.

Other holdover lettermen include 6-1 senior guard Jaffee Woolfork (Lovejoy, Ill. - Venice), 6-5 junior forward Kent Hackamack (Hannibal) and 6-2 senior guard Jim Tillman (St. Joseph - Lafayette).

Additional returnees, who should add depth to the squad, are 6-2 sophomore guard Jerry Brockmiller (LaGrange - Highland), 5-10 sophomore guard David Kennedy (Des Plaines, Ill. - Main West), 6-1 junior guard Larry Lunsford (Macon) and 6-7 senior center Bill Misiewicz (Detroit - Redford).

The promising new prospects include 7-2 center Rod Twiggs, 6-7 forward Ossie Cobb and 6-2 guard Daryel Herring, all from Oakland Community College in Oakland, Mich.; 6-3 guard Kedrin Edgerson from Mineola High School in Mineola, N.Y.; and 6-0 guard David Dumas from St. Louis-Hazelwood Central High School.

Twiggs, believed to be the tallest player ever recruited by NMSU, will not play the first semester because of personal commitments, according to Sims. He will be available the second semester.

Cobb, sidelined most of last winter with a knee injury at Oakland, has the quickness, jumping ability and shooting touch to become an "outstanding player in the MIAA," Sims thinks. Cobb scored at a 14.9 clip as a freshman.

Herring will be a serious contender for starting duty, too. He averaged 10.3 points and 6.8 assists for Oakland this past season, and has "exceptional speed," according to the Bulldog coach.

Dumas and Edgerson are also highly regarded by Sims. Dumas was a three-year starter at St. Louis - Hazelwood, and Edgerson was one of the final 20 players at the tryouts for the Junior Olympic team.

Sims says depth and a pressing game, key factors in NMSU's successful quest for the 1978-79 conference crown, should be evident again in 1979-80.

"All of our recruits are mobile, and should fit nicely into our press," he adds. "Our goal this season is to win the conference again and do better than last year in the national tournament. It took a little longer than we thought it would to get our first MIAA title, and we'd like to hold on to it for a while."

IN MEMORIAM

Wanda Lou Bemboom

Wanda Lou Bemboom, 37, instructor in the Language and Literature Division at NMSU, died unexpectedly Aug. 2 in the Medical Center in Independence, Mo.

Bemboom taught undergraduate English and literature at NMSU for 14 years. She also had been faculty sponsor for the Delta Sigma Theta social sorority.

"She really was one of the best classroom teachers we had. There's no way she can be replaced," said Dr. Edwin C. Carpenter, head of the Language and Literature Division. Bemboom had a genuine concern for students, he said.

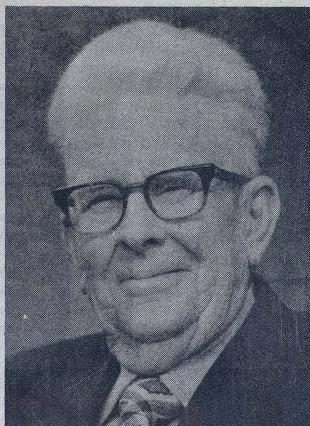

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Bemboom of Independence was born Jan. 27, 1942, in Jefferson City. Wardsville, about seven miles south of Jefferson City, was her childhood home. She attended St. Mary's Grade School and VanHorn High School in Independence. In 1964 she received her B.S.E. degree from Central Missouri State University in Warrensburg. She earned her M.S. degree from the same university in 1965.

Bemboom belonged to the American Association of University Women and Delta Kappa Gamma, an international organization for outstanding women educators. Professional affiliations included the National Council of Teachers of English, Missouri State Teachers of English and Conference on College Composition and Communication.

She was an active member of the Mary Immaculate Catholic Church in Kirksville.

Surviving are her parents; two brothers, Donald Bemboom and Robert Bemboom; and one sister, Linda Kay Robertson. All are of Independence.

Funeral services were held Aug. 6 at the St. Stanislaus Church in Wardsville. Burial was in Wardsville.

Otho Lathel Barnett

Otho Lathel Barnett 1928, head emeritus of the Practical Arts Division, died Sept. 5, 1979, in a Kirksville hospital where he had been a patient since Aug. 15. He had been in failing health the past two years. Burial was in Maple Hills Cemetery in Kirksville.

Born July 9, 1905, in Macon County near LaPlata, he was the son of George Milton and Mary Bobena Lyda Barnett. On Aug. 21, 1926, he married Mauretta Baity who preceded him in death on Aug. 25, 1957. On June 21, 1958, he married Martha Broaddus Wilkin who survives. Also surviving are two daughters, Jane Barnett 1957 of Columbia and assistant professor of physical education at NMSU, and Mrs. James (Mary) Priebe of Burlington, Iowa; two granddaughters, Susan and Sara Priebe; and Mrs. Edward (Minnie) Dickerson who made her home in the Barnett home for many years.

He was a 1923 graduate of the LaPlata High School. Mr. Barnett received his bachelor's degree in education from Northeast Missouri State University in 1928 and his master's degree from the University of Missouri in Columbia in 1938.

Mr. Barnett taught in Leadwood Public Schools from 1925 until 1926. He then returned to Kirksville where he taught in the junior high school until 1928. At that time he became a teacher at Kirksville Senior High School where he taught industrial arts and coached basketball until 1938 when he joined the faculty at Northeast. He became head of the newly-created Division of Practical Arts in 1942 and served in that capacity until his retirement in 1968.

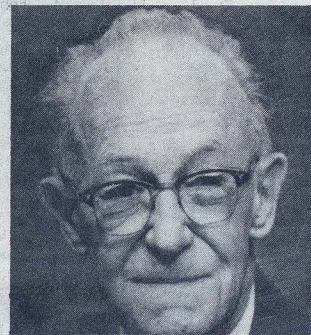

For 15 years he served as coordinator for the college building program in addition to serving as division head. At one time he was supervising four building projects that were underway on the University campus with an additional project in the planning stage.

Mr. Barnett established the first driver education teacher training program in the state of Missouri.

He served as sponsor of Phi Sigma Epsilon social fraternity for five years and for many years he was a member of the Athletic Committee at Northeast. For 20 years he was referee for both football and basketball.

Upon Mr. Barnett's retirement in 1968, he received emeritus status at NMSU. On March 4, 1978, a banquet in his honor was held at the University at which time the practical arts alumni gave the University a portrait of him. At this time a scholarship in Industrial Education was established in his name.

Dr. James C. Wright

Dr. James C. Wright, professor emeritus of education at Northeast Missouri State University, died July 19 at Kirksville Osteopathic Hospital. Dr. Wright, 76, had suffered a major stroke three weeks earlier.
