Distinguished Educators to Address Assemblies

Centennial Convocation September 2; Second One Hundred Years to Begin

Delegates from colleges and universities throughout the country will participate in the Centennial Convocation ceremonies on September 2, 1967. On this occasion the College will begin its second one hundred years. It was on that date in 1867 that founder Joseph Baldwin first opened the doors to the school that became the first state college of Missouri for the preparation of teachers.

Highlighting the one day event will be addresses by three distinguished educators, Drs. T. M. Stinnett, John Guy Fowlkes, and Henry H. Hill. Drs. Stinnett and Fowlkes will speak at the morning assembly while Dr. Hill will address guests at a luncheon in the Ryle Hall dining room.

The colorful academic procession of delegates preceding the program will be led by the Harvard University representative, Congressman William L. Hungate of Missouri's Ninth District, an alumnus of Harvard. Delegates are traditionally placed in such processions by the date of founding of the college or university they represent. Included in the procession will be the Regents of the College, the featured speakers and a group of former faculty members as well as the present members of the faculty.

The ceremonial lighting of the Flame to the Second Century will occur at noon during the recessional from the college auditorium. The flame, which will be situated near the north entrance to the campus, symbolizes the beginning of the second century and is expected to burn constantly in its location until a suitable design for permanent display can be adopted and executed.

Immediately following the recessional the delegates and guests will attend a luncheon in the Ryle Hall dining room. Master of ceremonies for this event will be Dr. J. C. Wright, Chairman of the Centennial Convocation Committee. Dr. Henry H. Hill, Acting President George Peabody College for Teachers, will speak on the topic "What is Right with Teacher Education." Dr. Stinnett, Visiting Professor at Texas A & M University, will discuss "The Emerging Revolution in Teacher Education" and the second speaker of the morning, Dr. John Guy Fowlkes will speak on "New and Different Curricular Patterns in the Preparation of Teachers."

The theme for the day long program is: "Professional Education of Teachers; Present Status and Future Trends." It is expected to have wide appeal to educators as well as others interested in the challenge of preparing teachers of tomorrow. All alumni, students and friends of the College are invited to participate in this historic day.

The Convocation is being sponsored financially by the Teachers College chapter of Phi Delta Kappa.

College Receives Bus "a la carte" For Group Travel

Transportation "a la carte" that describes the new bus which the Teachers College received this past summer to be used to transport various college groups throughout the year.

The new bus is a replacement for the fifteen year old coach which had been driven some four hundred thousand miles to all parts of the United States. The old bus had often been referred to by its many passengers as the "Purple Grape", in reference to its purple color.

With an occupancy of forty-one passengers, the new GMC bus is completely air-conditioned, has a central public address system with two mike-jacks half way to the back of the bus, a radio with speakers throughout, and it is powered by a 270 h.p. V-8 diesel engine.

The new bus has several safety features including an armor protection plate in front of the bus for the driver's safety; various safety signals for all component parts of the engine; and safety stop switches on the braking system and engine.

The fuel tank carries a load of 140 gallons of diesel fuel and an oil change requires seven gallons of top grade motor oil.

Passengers will relax in reclining contour adjustable seats with individual reading lamps and head rests. All road bumps and vibrations are absorbed by the new air-suspension ride—there are no springs.

Driving the school bus again this year, as he has for the past ten years, will be Dick Mullenix. To make his job a little easier the bus is powered with power steering, power brakes and special driver ventilation.

Dean Emeritus P.O. Selby Reports on Centennial Autograph Collection

Ten years ago, when our College had reached the age of ninety, I collected 180 autographs from famous people which I put on display in honor of our celebration that year. Some people wrote congratulatory letters while many merely signed their names on the cards furnished. Kenneth Roberts sent two autographed books of which he was the author; W. C. Handy sent a half dozen of his songs.

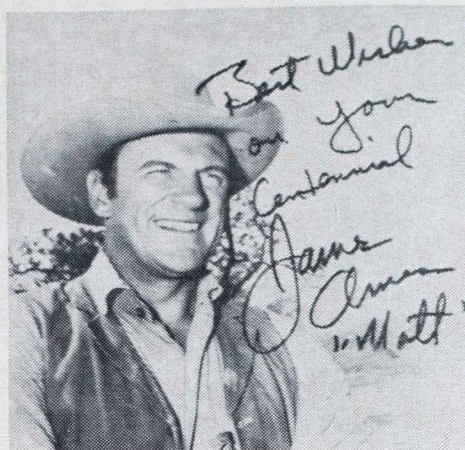

For this, our centennial year, I thought the occasion was worthy of a greater number of autographs; I sent cards to a thousand prominent persons asking them for an autograph on the card, or a message, or a photograph, or whatever they cared to send. I received 875 replies. Some did merely autograph the card, others added a few words of recognition, and more than ninety sent photographs. A number of institutions such as Southwest Missouri State, Arizona State University, Colorado State College, Southern Ill-

There were cards from President Johnson, General Eisenhower, Mr. and Mrs. Truman, Vice President Humphrey, most of the governors, most of the U. S. senators, four fifths of the U. S. representatives, Ralph Bunche, Sandy Koufax, Casey Stengel, and Richard Nixon. Otto Graham, coach of the Washington Redskins wrote "To my father's alma mater." He must have forgotten that his mother also received her college education here.

Mayor John Lindsey

The collection, which fills seven large volumes, will be displayed at some of our centennial celebrations. After that it will find a home either in the Missouriana Library or in the Rare Books room when the Library gets that established

Five Bells Represent Liberty, Justice, Religion, Education

Liberty, Justice, Religion and Education are represented by the five historic bells which were recently dedicated on the College campus.

The bells are a gift to the College from Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burdman of Kirksville, and the brick wall, housing the bells, is a gift of the May and August divisions of the Centennial graduating class.

The "Bell Wall", which is located between the Kirk Building and Ophelia Parrish, holds the various bells which are representative of segmental development of northeast Missouri. The Wall, with an exterior of common brick and a steel frame interior, is approximately 47 feet in length and stands nearly 8½ feet high.

Supporting bells weighing over 3,000 pounds, the Wall has five archways in which the bells hang. Located on the pillar foundations are bronze plates tracing the history of each bell.

Ideas for the construction of a Bell Wall were brought into full swing when Joe Burdman, prominent Kirksville businessman, donated the five bells to the College in February of 1965.

Holding significant historical value, the bells come from various parts of northeast Missouri. The largest weighing 1120 pounds and made of brass, came from the old Adair county courthouse.

The single cast iron bell came from a Seventh Day Adventist Church near Goldsberry, Missouri, and the other three, made of brass, came from the old Schuyler county courthouse, the old Hurdland school, and a rural school in the Moberly vicinity.

According to the dedication ceremony, the Bell Wall represents the influences of the past acting on the present to build onto the future.

Standing is Joe Burdman, prominent Kirksville businessman, as he made the presentation of the five historic bells which now hang in the Bell Wall on the College campus.

Phi Delta Kappa Initiates Ninety-Nine

Ninety-nine candidates were initiated into the Teachers College chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity for men in education, in ceremonies held on the campus during the summer quarter. Violette Hall prior to the banquet and ceremonies. Membership in the national fraternity is comprised of men engaged in practicing the profession of education who have met certain scholastic standards and have been well recommended. The Epsilon Gamma chapter was established on the campus in 1959.

Dr. Rosenstengel Has Been Named To Hall of Fame

A former professor of education at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina has been named to the North Carolina Educational Hall of Fame. He is the late William Everette Rosenstengel, 1923, a native of Perry, Missouri and professor of education administration at UNC for many years. He died on April 23, 1958. To be eligible for membership in the Hall of Fame, a person must have made an outstanding contribution to public education. Nominees must have been dead for at least five years and their services to education must have been state-wide in their effects. In addition to the B.S. degree from KSTC Dr. Rosenstengel received the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Missouri. The citation to Dr. Rosenstengel reads as follows: "Education in two great states is better because of the contribution of this great and good man. Teacher, superintendent, college professor, author, lecturer, friend of education and friend to all who claim to be 'teacher'—we honor his memory and perpetuate his ideals by including his name among the illustrious group of educational statesmen in the North Carolina Educational Hall of Fame."

Roswell Henderson Gives Mark Twain Literature to Missouriana Library

The Missouriana Library of the Teachers College has acquired from Roswell P. Henderson of Moberly some 700 books, pamphlets and magazines by and about Mark Twain. When these are added to the library bequeathed to the college by the late Dr. Minnie Brashear and other purchases, the library will have more than one thousand volumes on the one subject of Mark Twain.

This collection of books and other items about Northeast Missouri's most famous son is one of the largest in the nation, ranking behind only such important libraries as Yale University, the University of California, the New York Public Library and the Huntington Library at San Marino, California.

There are now in the library at Kirksville some rare first editions of such books as Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn, and The Prince and the Pauper and quite a number of books autographed by Mark Twain and those who wrote about him.

When Dr. Brashear died in 1963 it was discovered that she had left her Mark Twain books to the college. This was a nucleus of 250 volumes including many rare items. Dr. Brashear was the author of "Mark Twain, Son of Missouri" and her manuscript is one of the valued possessions of Missouriana. With Dr. Robert Rodney she had coauthored "The Art, Humor and Humanity of Mark Twain." They had also planned a book on "The Birds and Beasts of Mark Twain" and some sample pages of this book are in the library. However this publication was interrupted by Dr. Brashear's death except that Dr. Rodney, now of Northern Illinois University, has finished it and it is being published by the University of Oklahoma Press.

Mr. Roswell Henderson, whose collection of Mark Twain books, has recently been acquired by the Missouriana Library, is an attorney in Moberly. He is a native of Paris, Missouri, and like so many other Monroe Countians has had a lifelong interest in Mark Twain. With Wayne Husted of Kirksville he scoured Northeast Missouri and dug up many interesting items concerning Mark Twain and his Northeast Missouri relatives. Some of Mr. Henderson's collection has gone to the Mark Twain State Park at Florida, Mo., but there are seven hundred volumes in the purchase for the Missouriana Library as well as five volumes of clippings.

Marvin Braden Becomes New Bulldog Mentor

Marv Braden comes to the Teachers College to become head football coach after seven years of gridiron and athletic administrative experience.

The 29-year old Kansas City native was administrative assistant to Athletic Director "Chelo" Huerta at Parsons College and also was one of Huerta's assistant football coaches the past two years.

After he was graduated from Westport High School in Kansas City as an honor student, he enrolled at Southwest Missouri (Springfield State) in 1956 on a football scholarship. Braden lettered three years in the gridiron sport, playing every backfield position. Because of injuries, he could not perform his senior year at Springfield, but did serve as athletic trainer that season.

At the age of 19, he was offered a professional baseball contract by the Cleveland Indians.

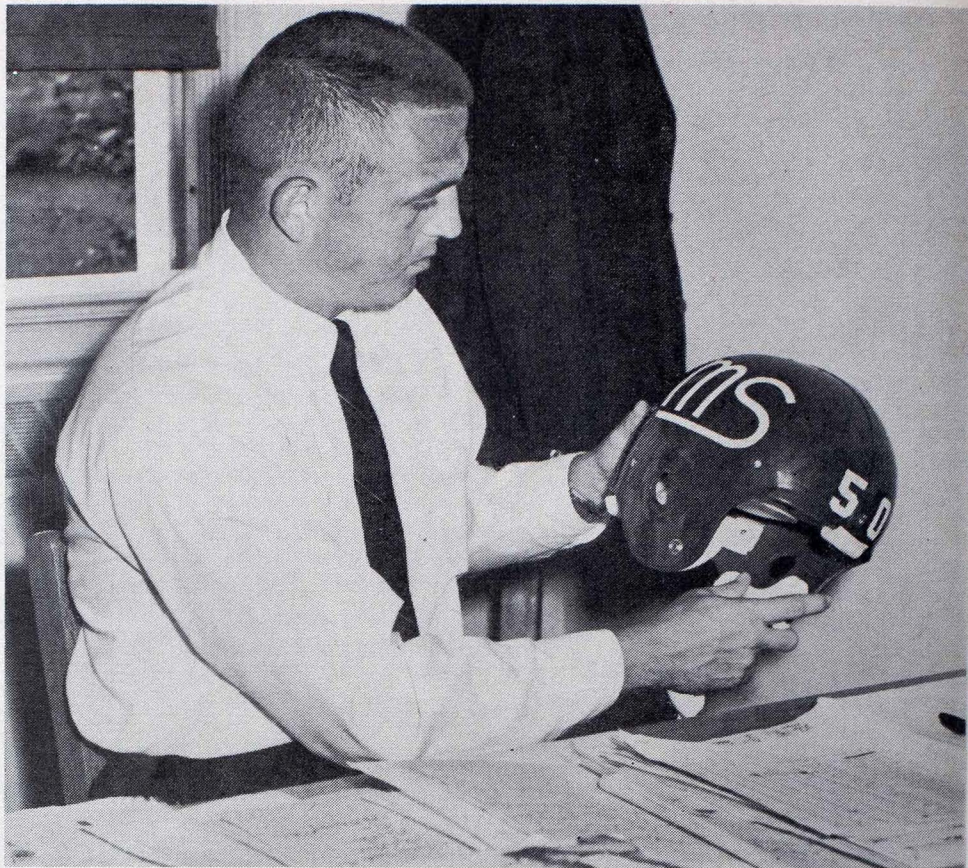

Upon his graduation from Springfield with a B.S. degree in Education, he served as health and physical education director at Fulton High School in 1960-61, along with duties as football co-coach, basketball assistant coach, and head track coach.

Braden received a graduate teaching assistantship in the department of physical education at the University of Missouri for 1961-62. He served as freshman backfield coach at the University and as defensive backfield assistant coach for the spring varsity practice.

In 1962, he was appointed defensive backfield coach at Lafayette College, Easton, Pennsylvania, serving in that capacity until 1965 when he was named to his post at Parsons.

He has published a number of articles in professional journals and is a member of the American Football Coaches Association, Iowa Football Coaches Association and Phi Delta Kappa, honorary education fraternity. Braden is married and has a six-year old daughter.

Coach Marvin Braden looks over the new helmets which his Bulldog team will be wearing this year as they open their season against Southern Illinois University.

Fred Banks Captures First In National 440-Yard Event

Fred Banks, junior track star from Los Angeles, California, is the first Bulldog cinderman to earn an individual national title and only the second Teachers College athlete ever to capture a national event.

Banks streaked to a first in the NCAA College Division 440-yard dash on June 10 at Ogden, Utah, with a time of :47.3, a new school record. He also placed second in the 220 as he was clocked at :20.7.

These two efforts qualified him for the NCAA University Division Meet the following weekend at Provo, Utah. Although he finished second in his 440-yard heat and third in his 220 heat of the preliminaries, Banks failed to advance beyond the semi-finals at Provo. Coach Ken Gardner felt the lanky sprinter had done well, though, competing against the top runners in the nation. Gardner, who left for summer school during Banks' participation at Provo, did his coaching via the telephone from Kirksville. Tom Songster, who is the new cross-country mentor succeeding Dr. George Hermann, was with Banks at the University Division Meet. Songster had been working on his doctorate at the University of Utah.

Banks has been a key performer for Gardner the past two seasons. He also was a member of the Kirksville record-shattering 880 and mile relay teams this spring. Last March, he smashed the MIAA Indoor Conference 440-yard time of :51.0 by breaking the tape at :49.6.

In the most recent U.S. Track and Field Federation Performance Report, dated June 28, Banks was listed among the top 220-yard participants nationally.

Pro-Slot with Power "I" New Offensive and Defensive Play To Be Employed by Bulldog Squad

Some area football experts are convinced the Bulldogs will take their lumps in 1967. On paper, they feel there may be quality at several positions, but they wonder if there are enough horses.

The talk in the Kirksville camp is not necessarily that of a championship season, especially after 1966 when the purple and white finished last in the MIAA Conference for the first time since 1955. However, an observer cannot help but detect a feeling of enthusiasm about the forthcoming campaign when talking with Marv Braden, the Bulldogs' new coach.

Braden, an articulate young man of 29, succeeds Maurice "Red" Wade, who carved out a successful 99-41-2 record the past 16 years. The former Parsons (Iowa) College assistant brings a "new look" to Kirksville.

Offensively, the Bulldogs have operated from a "Wing-T", grinding out hunks of yardage and wearing down the opponent. Now, they will employ a Pro-Slot attack with a Power "I", a more wide-open type of game. Braden's defense will consist of an aggressive five-man front and inverted-type of secondary.

"We'll have a tough row to hoe this fall, learning a new system and playing a very stiff schedule, but I sincerely believe we could surprise some people, if we remain healthy through the early stages of the season," Braden maintains.

The mentor thinks he has two of the conference's best assistant coaches in Ken Gardner and Bill Richerson, both former Bulldog gridiron stars. Gardner has been on the staff since 1951, and Richerson returned to his alma mater in 1961. Braden knows something about the MIAA and the coaches, because he performed intercollegiately for the Springfield State Bears, who incidentally captured the title last fall.

Sixteen lettermen are returning for the 1967 season. Fourteen of these performers played on Kirksville's 1965 championship team that narrowly missed an undefeated campaign by four points and a total of three minutes on the scoreclock.

Among the 14 men who performed two years ago are such stalwarts as quarterback Rick Gorzynski; split end John Newcomb; halfbacks Rick Reeves, Steve Garrett, and Jerry Meyer; linebackers Mike Bielic and Rich Stallings; and tackle Jim Farrell. Gorzynski and Newcomb were hampered by injuries last fall, but they were an effective passing combination in the 1965 title effort.

"I know these young men have a great deal of pride and self respect with an intense desire to regain their 1965 form. All I want to do is attempt to help make this possible," Braden emphasizes.

Frank Wagner, a guard and Gary Newcomb, a halfback, both sophomores, are also returning monogram recipients from a year ago. They should help, as should three transfers, Rick Cash and Dan Stehle, both tackles, and Jerry Lybarger, a linebacker. Lybarger comes to the Bulldogs from Missouri Valley College. Cash and Stehle transferred from Missouri and Indiana, respectively.

Braden is also expecting 30 or more returning squadmen. Altogether, he anticipates about 84 prospects when pre-season drills open on August 28.

The "new look" will not be limited to the coach and his football philosophy. Players will be sporting new helmets and home-game uniforms when they trot on the field this fall.

Braden has been on the new job only since June, but he is plunging into his new challenge with confidence and optimism. He hopes this enthusiasm will rub off on all his 1967 players.
