NORTHEAST MISSOURI STATE COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

A Report from the Secretary

Several important steps for the future of your Alumni Association were taken at a meeting of the officers and board of directors held Friday evening, April 26, at the Crossroads Restaurant in Moberly. Seaton A. Bonta, president, presided over the business session with seven members of the board in attendance.

The board unanimously voted to issue complimentary one-year memberships to the 1968 spring and summer graduates of the College. A letter of congratulations is being sent to each graduate along with a membership card. The Association, its services and purposes, will be explained during the coming year to the new members with the hope that many of them will continue their memberships on an active basis.

The Association has employed a clipping service for a trial period to receive specified clippings concerning alumni. Appropriate letters will be mailed to alumni mentioned in the clippings. The service will also be helpful in keeping address and occupation files current and will provide additional alumni news for the Nemoscope.

The board heard membership and financial reports. Total membership in the Association is nearing 2,000 with annual renewals being received by the Alumni Office at an approximate 80% average.

Finally, I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate and express best wishes to Frank Colton, a member of the Public Relations staff for the past several years. Frank has received a one-year leave of absence from the College to accept a Mott Fellowship in Flint, Michigan. His duties have involved, in part, the organization of numerous successful alumni meetings throughout the country.

Your officers would appreciate receiving your suggestions as to how the Association can better serve you. Feel free to write or call the Alumni Office if any of us can be of service to you.

F. V. Colton Receives Mott Foundation Fellowship; One of Forty Granted in the United States for '68

Frank V. Colton, Educational Coordinator at the Northeast Missouri State College, has been selected to receive a Mott Foundation Fellowship Grant for the 1968-69 academic year. He is one of forty recipients of a fellowship chosen from several hundred applicants. A year's leave of absence was granted Mr. Colton by the College Board of Regents at a recent meeting of the Board.

The Mott Inter-University Clinical Preparation Program for educational leadership is one of the many projects sponsored by the Mott Foundation of Flint, Michigan. Mr. Charles S. Mott, who has been called the "incredibly frugal philanthropist of Flint" has given millions of dollars over the years to educational projects in the second largest city in Michigan. Mr. Mott, who was an automotive pioneer and once General Motors Corporation's largest single shareholder, has helped turn Flint from a potential factory shantytown into a burgeoning Midwest cultural center.

This particular program is actually supported by the Mott Foundation, the Flint Public Schools and the seven state supported universities of Michigan. Two fellowship programs are provided. One leads to the master's degree program and the other to the doctor's degree. Persons pursuing the master's degree program are prepared for the position of director of community school education while doctoral candidates are prepared for positions in the fields of administration, college teaching and research.

Mr. Colton will be studying at Wayne State University in Detroit, one of the four participating universities offering doctoral work. He will do his internship training in the Flint community school system.

Colton received the bachelor of science in business administration and the bachelor of science in business education degrees from the State College in 1957. He also holds the master of arts degree in city school administration from the College and has done graduate work at the University of Missouri. Mr. Colton taught in the public schools of Missouri and Iowa and returned to the College as Assistant to the Business Manager in 1960. In 1963 he was named to the administrative faculty as Educational Coordinator.

He is married to the former Linda Elam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Frank V. Colton

Barrett Elam of Ethel, and a 1961 graduate of the College. They have two daughters, Cathy, 5 and Caryn, 3. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Colton of 611 East Patterson.

Fall Schedules Will Be Mailed On Request

The College Publications Office has discontinued the policy of automatically mailing fall schedules to students not in summer school.

However, students who wish a copy of the schedule before returning to the campus in September should notify the Publications Office before the end of this quarter or write the office this summer, indicating their complete address and zip code.

Fall schedules will be available about August 15.

Miss Marian Peoples, B.S.E. 1956 and M.A. 1960, Shelbyville, Missouri, is North Shelby librarian and teacher of seventh grade English. She has previously taught in Bethel, Marcelline and Moberly Schools.

Student Union Becomes Activity Center Of Campus During First Year of Operation

The Quiet Lounge

The Gallery

The most popular new building on the campus of Northeast Missouri State College is the spacious Student Union completed in late 1967. Many alumni have had an opportunity to see and use the facilities of the building. The Nemoscope is proud to feature the campus center in this issue. We hope to pictorially give those alumni who have not seen the Union a brief glimpse of its excellent facilities.

The Union, a massive three story structure of Georgian architectural design, covers nearly a two block area with the main entrance located just across Marion Street from the Pickler Memorial Library.

The main concourse of the Union can be entered from the Marion or Franklin Street sides of the building. The concourse leads to the large Quiet Lounge, the Georgian Room, the Snack Bar, the Alumni Room, the Spanish Room, the Gallery and the Union offices. Several large lighted enclosed display cases are located in the main concourse. They are normally filled with student pottery and crafts displays.

The Quiet Lounge is often termed the 'college family living room' and is fully carpeted and beautifully furnished. The spacious lounge of more than 4,000 square feet is used extensively by students for study and relaxation. The Alumni Room is a smaller, more formal lounge used for various receptions, teas, coffees and small meetings. The largest dining room on the State College campus is the Georgian Room with a banquet seating capacity of nearly 1,000. It is joined by the Snack Bar which can accommodate several hundred persons.

The Gallery, which features a constant display of student, faculty and professional art work, leads to the Spanish Room, a smaller, more formal dining room. As the name indicates, the decor is Spanish with massive furniture, ornate light fixtures and red carpeting and draperies.

The lower floor of the building contains a games room, an eight-lane bowling alley, the large, modern Campus Bookstore, a barber shop and several storage areas.

The games room houses fourteen pool, snooker and billiard tables, table tennis and other table games. Ample seating space is provided in both the games room and the bowling alley for spectators.

The lower concourse has a number of individual lockers which can be used by commuting students. All of the lockers were rented during the spring quarter. Numerous lockers are available to organizations for safe-keeping of their records and supplies.

The modern book store retails textbooks, fiction, general school supplies, toiletry items and sporting goods. The self-service store is twenty times larger

The Union games room features billiards, pool, table tennis and other table games. The room joins the eight lane bowling alley and both facilities are in constant use by the students and faculty.

than the old Campus Bookstore formerly located in the Laughlin Building.

The third floor features several organizational meeting rooms, a large activities room for dances and other social affairs and a television room.

The new College Book Store is nearly twenty times larger than the old store and features modern self-service merchandising of books, school supplies and sportswear.

An eight lane bowling alley is one of the most popular facilities of the new Student Union. Located on the lower floor, the alleys are equipped with the most modern bowling facilities, and are in constant demand.

Numerous summer and fall social activities are held on the Union Roof Garden. Portable outdoor tables, chairs and umbrellas along with permanent stone benches furnish the garden.

The activities room leads to a spacious roof garden equipped with portable outdoor tables, chairs and umbrellas and permanent stone benches. Numerous summer and fall activities are being planned for the roof garden.

A large brick patio is located just south of the main entrance to the Union. It is used for outdoor art displays and social events. Ample parking facilities are available to the north and south of the building.

Thousands of students, alumni and guests have enjoyed the facility during its eight months of operation, according to Union Director, Kenneth C. Sykes.

College Sponsors Tour Of Mexico in August

An escorted tour of Mexico is being offered by the Northeast Missouri State College from August 17-28 under the direction of G. H. Jamison. Alumni are cordially invited to join the tour being offered at the low figure of $455 all-inclusive round trip by air from Kansas City. Included in the package are air fares, hotel costs, most meals, admissions to a bull fight and all museums and baggage handling. The tour will visit Mexico City, Puebla, Taxco and Acapulco.

Interested alumni should write to Mr. Jamison at the College. Reservations should be made early.

The Rev. Gayle Engel, 1963, received the Distinguished Service Award from the Washington, Missouri Jaycees. The award is given for outstanding community service during the calendar year and was presented to Mr. Engel at the Jaycee Night, February 3, 1968.

Dr. Ryle Compiling Centennial History; Requests Numerous Early Publications

I am in the process of writing the centennial history of a school that was first known as the North Missouri Normal School, then the First District State Normal School, and finally as the Northeast Missouri State Teachers College. Over a period of one hundred years it carried three different names, but it was the same institution known by different names.

I need all of the historical documents that I can locate, especially in the period prior to 1900. The most important of all the official documents are the published catalogues of the institution. First, I want a copy of the Second Annual Catalogue of the North Missouri Normal School for the year beginning September 1, 1868. For a good copy of this issue, I will give three dollars for the first one that is presented to me. Second, for the Third Annual Catalogue of the North Missouri Normal School for the year beginning September 1, 1869. For a good copy of this issue, I will give two dollars for the first one that is presented to me. Third, for a copy of the catalogue for the school year of 1872-73; a catalogue of the school year of 1873-74; a catalogue of the school year of 1875-76; a catalogue of the school year of 1876-77; a catalogue of the school year of 1877-78; a catalogue of the school year of 1878-79; and a catalogue of the school year of 1880-81. I will give one dollar and fifty cents for a good copy of each of the above catalogues from 1872 to 1881. These catalogues were published during the administration of Joseph Baldwin.

Fourth, I am in need of a copy of each of the catalogues published during the administration of President Blanton, that is, from 1882-1891, with the exception of the one for 1890-91. I will pay one dollar for the first catalogue presented to me published by President Blanton. Fifth, I am also in need of copies of the catalogues published by President Dobson from 1891-1899, with the exception of the one published in 1893-94. I will give one dollar each for the first catalogue presented to me if it is in good condition.

Message to Alumni

For the past four years it has been my pleasure to work with many of our alumni around the district and in other states in setting up alumni meetings. It has been extremely gratifying for me to go into an area and find people who are genuinely interested in this type of thing. If I were to mention the names of those who had shown such a loyal attitude toward their Alma Mater I would only run the risk of omitting someone—suffice it to say that all of us have appreciated their efforts tremendously.

Most of you know that we now have an Alumni Association that boasts of dues paying members from all over the nation and the world. I would like to think that our area meetings have contributed greatly to the interest which has been displayed in the Association. With the able leadership of such people as Seaton Bonta, Glen Hocker and Russell Harrison, the Association certainly has a bright future.

During the coming year I will be on leave of absence from the College. I hope that we can still have area meetings when and where they seem appropriate. The College will continue to be vitally interested in your meetings and will do everything possible to assist you in your planning and in providing programs. Write the Alumni Office when you need help.

College Awarded Grant for Summer Science Institute

Northeast Missouri State College has been awarded a grant of $53,820 for support of a "Summer Institute in Ecological Core Program for Secondary School Teachers," by the National Science Foundation, Washington, D.C.

The Institute under the direction of Dr. Dean Rosebery, Head of the Division of Science, will provide stipends to forty selected secondary biology teachers to conduct study in ecology.

The purpose of the summer institute is to provide for secondary teachers an integrated science sequence covering ecosystems, community, population and systems ecology. The exact course of study will be directed by mathematicians, physical scientists, chemists and biologists who will plan the integrated core curricula in which the sequence and selection of subject matters will have maximal utility as a progressive reinforcing program.

The sequence is being designed to communicate the flavor of "ecological-type" approaches in the sense of making the student capable of critical inquiry in ecological literature and provide him with some intuition concerning the selection of various size projects and carrying them through. Problems selected will be those most suitable for inducing further intersequence work by the teacher on his own or with his students. It is believed that in this way the teacher will be better able to continue in the three summer sequence, and be more aware of the type of programs he might carry back to his school in the future.

The first sequence of the Institute will begin on June 17 and continue through August 9 of 1968. Any interested person should contact Dr. Rosebery by writing to the College.

Sixth, I am in need of the following catalogues published during the administration of John R. Kirk: one published in 1900, 1919, 1920, 1921, and 1922. For a good copy of each of these, I will pay one dollar.

ALUMNI HIGHLIGHTS

Miss Willa Holmes, 1966, has been promoted to director of the Green Hills Area Educational program. Milan, Unionville, Princeton, Bethany and Trenton are included in the Green Hills Area. Miss Holmes will have charge of the Head Start, ECDC and adult education. She is beginning her third year on the staff as coordinator of all educational work.

Jack Ward, B.S.E. 1963 and M.A. 1964, Kirksville Senior High School track and assistant football coach, has been named head football coach for the Tigers this year. According to Superintendent O. Wayne Phillips, seven applicants were considered for the position.

Robert Crow, B.S.E. 1954 and M.A. 1955, Trenton, Missouri, was hired by the R-3 Board of Education as high school principal. He has been band director for the Trenton high school for the past 11 years. Before he joined the Trenton system he was an instructor in the Kahoka, Missouri school system for two years and was with the Lancaster, Missouri school system for two years. His wife, Barbara, 1955, is also hired on a ten-month contract, as home economics instructor, and will succeed Miss Nettie Clemens who is retiring.

Mrs. Mary Ann Watts, 1953, and her husband, H. K. Watts, live at 9007 A. Lackland, St. Louis, Missouri. Mrs. Watts is teaching in the transitional room (1st and 2nd Grades) at Iveland School in the Ritenour District and Mr. Watts is retired. On June 5th Mrs. Watts will retire and they will return to Elsberry, Missouri, their home town.

James B. Pound, 1964, has been promoted to the position of senior buyer for the Electronics and Space division of Emerson Electric Company of St. Louis, Missouri. In the new position he will be responsible for the procurement of electrical components for the space division. Associated with Emerson since 1965, Mr. Pound has been production control manager for the Space Division facility at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa for a year and a half. The former Kirksville resident assumed his new position January 8, 1968 and on February 1, he, his wife, Charlotte, 1964, and their two sons moved to St. Charles, Missouri.

Leland Easterday, B.S.E. 1954 and M.A. 1957, and his wife, Rosa, reside at 2418 North Hampshire Avenue, Joplin, Missouri. Mr. Easterday is an assistant professor of elementary education at Missouri Southern State College and Mrs. Easterday is teaching sixth grade in the Joplin, Missouri school system. Mr. Easterday has attended the University of Missouri at Columbia and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for post-masters degree work.

Mrs. Ben (Berdie) Freiberger, 1957, was appointed Callaway County school superintendent by Governor Warren E. Hearnes. She will replace her husband, who held the office for many years before his death in February.

Donald R. Shoemake, B.S.E. 1959 and M.A. 1963, is the assistant football coach at Wichita State University, Wichita, Kansas. He and his wife and two sons live at 1039 North Christine, Wichita.

Paul Edwin Roquet, 1955, is the manager of a company store of International Harvester Company. He, his wife, Betty, and their sons, Michael and Gregory, live at 320 West 11th, Carroll, Iowa.

Harry O. Donnohue, 1934, was promoted January 5, 1968 to director of manufacturing of A. B. Chance Company's Universal Pole and Structures Division plant in Houston, Texas. He will be in charge of all manufacturing operations of the Houston plant.

Alexander Captures N.C.A.A. College Wrestling Championship; Third Bulldog National Champ

"It was by far my greatest thrill as a high school or college wrestler." This was the reaction of Northeast Missouri's Curd Alexander after capturing the 115-pound championship at the Sixth Annual NCAA College Division Wrestling Tourney in Mankato, Minnesota in March.

By virtue of this accomplishment, the Edwardsville, Illinois sophomore became only the third Bulldog athlete to wear a national crown. Ed Schneider won the 1964 NCAA College Division Cross-Country Title, and Fred Banks was the 440-yard champion at the 1967 NCAA College Division Track Meet. Alexander is also the first Missouri grappler to claim a division title at either an NCAA College or University Division Tourney.

But the quiet spoken athlete admits he had some anxious moments, especially in the finals. Although he had captured the 115-pound flight at the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association Conference Tourney on March 2 and was named its Most Valuable Performer, Alexander was unseeded at Mankato.

After decisioning Chris Katayama of St. Olaf, (Minnesota), 11-3 in first-round competition, his next hurdle was second-seeded Andy Matviak. He handed the Wilkes College (Pennsylvania) grappler a 14-8 loss to advance to the quarterfinals. In that bout, Illinois State's Dave Eberhard, third-place finisher last winter and seeded third this year, was shut out, 9-0. Bill Simpson, pitted against Alexander in the semifinals, was dropped, 12-5.

The championship match with South Dakota's Greg Schmidt was a tense struggle, deadlocked, 1-1, after regulation time. "I was extremely nervous in the finals," recalls Curd. "There must have been about 8,000 persons watching, and all wrestlers were introduced under a spotlight." Schmidt gained a 1-0 lead in the second overtime period by an escape. The score remained the same until 12 seconds remained in the final period. Then, Alexander executed a do-or-die take-down, giving him a 2-1 clutch victory. "I used an arm drag with a single leg sweep to drop him on the mat," he explains.

Curd Alexander

"Alex was the best take-down artist on this year's squad," maintains Coach H. A. Walmsley. "He wrestled better at 115 where he utilized his strength, agility and great balance to subdue opponents." The records seem to support the mentor's contention. Alexander was 8-0-0 against 115 competition and 17-6-1 in 123-pound action.

The transition from high school to college wrestling was difficult, but jumping immediately into varsity competition was a real challenge, according to the former Edwardsville standout. "I had to change my style completely, because moves are different in college, match periods are longer, and you must keep in better shape," he points out. Alexander, under the tutelage of Mel Kuethe at Edwardsville, captured district and sectional titles three years in a row to advance to the state championships.

Bulldogs Finish Second in MIAA Basketball Race

Coach Boyd King's basketball team finished in the MIAA Conference runner-up spot to Southwest Missouri State College for the second consecutive season, but the 1967-68 campaign was somewhat disappointing to the Bulldogs.

"We felt some boys performed better than expected last winter, however, others didn't," reflected the mentor about the recently completed 12-11 season. "We'll strive next year for more individual consistency, an ingredient we lacked in 1967-68." This was also indicative in the home and road records. On the friendly Pershing Arena hardwood, the Bulldogs posted an 8-2 ledger. They were only 4-9 away from home.

Junior, Paul Ozug of Gary, Indiana paced the team in scoring and rebounding. The Houston University transfer, who averaged 21.7 and 13.3 in these categories, led the MIAA in point production. Ozug and sophomore guard Ron Sterchi of Olney, Illinois will be returning starters next winter. Sterchi averaged 10.0 points per outing after capturing a first-five berth the final 13 encounters. Impressed with his coolness under pressure, King believes the 6'1" backliner could be the floor general the team has lacked in recent campaigns.

"Nevertheless, we're looking for a guard, forward and center, especially one or two big men," stresses the mentor. During the post-season recruiting trips, King and Assistant Coach Willard Sims watched many promising high school and junior college prospects. It remains to be seen whether they will land any of these prospects.

Replacements must be found for four soon-to-be-graduating seniors—Rich Rider of Kirksville, Ken McBride of Cahokia, Illinois, Chuck King of Memphis, and Rick Cash of Webster Groves. Each started at least one contest last season, with Rider logging first-five duty every game.

In addition to Ozug and Sterchi, lettermen slated to return are Mike McPherson of Olney, Illinois, Dan O'Connell of East St. Louis, Illinois, Dick Hlavek of Orland Park, Illinois, Ken Parker of Lombard, Illinois, and Claude Wilson of Chicago.

Paul Ozug Named All-Conference in the M.I.A.A.; Bulldog Roundballer Leads Conference in Scoring, Second in Rebounds During First Season at NEMSC

Indiana has gained a solid reputation as a hotbed for basketball talent, and through the years, the Gary area has produced its share of fine collegiate roundballers. Paul Ozug, an alumnus of Gary Edison High School and now playing at Northeast Missouri State College, is considered one of that region's best all-time cagers.

This is saying quite a bit when considering the company in which this places the 6'4½", 220-pound junior. For instance, the Gary vicinity has groomed the likes of NBA Pro Dick Barnett and Drake University's star pivotman, Willie McCarter.

Before his graduation from the prep ranks, Ozug's name went into the record books as one of the top scorers in the history of Northwest Indiana. During his senior year, he averaged 28 points per game, pacing Gary, Lake County and the Calumet Conference in point production. He earned all-city, all-league, all-district, and honorable mention high school all-American recognition.

These credentials attracted many college recruiters, but Ozug decided to attend Houston University. As a first-year Cougar, he became one of only three in the history of the school to shatter the old freshman scoring mark. This elite trio also included All-American center Elvin Hayes and backliner Don Chaney, both valuable cogs for the nation's number one team in the current rankings.

Ozug logged enough playing time as a sophomore to win a numeral, but he was not overly happy on the Houston campus. The Cougars were blessed with considerable size, talent and depth. When his closest friend, Ken McBride, a 5'9" backliner, decided to transfer to Northeast Missouri State, Paul soon followed him.

Both performers were ineligible to compete last season, because of the transfer rule. However, after drills started in October, Coach Boyd King knew the duo would be prominent in the Bulldogs' aspirations for a winning campaign.

"It was apparent Paul had unusual ability and could perform at any position," King recalls from his first observation of the husky, well-coordinated athlete, "I felt he could be as good or even the best player to ever wear the purple and white uniform, if he lived up to his outstanding potential."

The mentor has developed a long list of great ones the past 22 years. It includes such names as Harry Gallatin, former pro player and coach, Larry Swift, NCAA College Division All-American, Jack Beck, NAIA All-American, as well as Don Parsons, Earl Dodd, Earl Perry, Rich Maack, and Willard Sims (currently the assistant Bulldog coach), two-time all-conference performers.

In his first season as a Bulldog, Ozug topped the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association in scoring and was second in rebounding. Overall he carried a 21.7 point-production average and grabbed caroms at a 13.3 clip.

Nevertheless, the physical education major declares he was somewhat dissatisfied with his personal performances in 1967-68. "My shooting (44.6 per cent) wasn't up to par," he critically analyzes himself. "I should hit about 50 per cent from the field. But at times, I seemed to become mad at myself when I missed, and this didn't help. Then too, I tried this past year to drive more for the basket, so I was fouled frequently." He was referring indirectly to his so-so 64.9 per cent from the charity line. However, he traced his mediocre free-throw accuracy back to his days at Gary.

He does not minimize his opponents' defensive abilities. In fact, many foes double-teamed him effectively during the recently completed campaign. Darryl Jones of St. Benedict's was perhaps the best all-around player he faced last winter, according to Ozug, who managed a mere six points the night he was guarded by the NAIA All-American center. Southwest Missouri State College, ranked high all year in both small college national polls, was the toughest defensively as a unit. "They really forced us to take bad shots," Ozug declares.

Although he is willing to play anywhere, the versatile performer believes he operates more successfully from the post, where his moves toward the basket may be his best.

The 1967-68 season, which only showed a 12-11 ledger but a second-place finish in the MIAA Conference, was still frustrating to Ozug and his teammates. On the more optimistic side of the ledger, only four of the top 11 performers will be graduated. "We could be a tough club next winter, if all of us work on every phase of our game between now and then," he insists.

Spring Sports Add Honors to 1967-68 Record; Strong Bulldog Track Team Wins Tenth Consecutive Title

As the spring sports season approached the mid-way point, State College teams were holding their own against opponents.

Coach Kenneth Gardner's track squad continued to enjoy success after an impressive winter campaign, capped off by the Bulldog's 10th consecutive MIAA Conference indoor title. In early April, they raced past Western Illinois in dual competition and placed high in several events at the Emporia State (Kansas) Relays. The Bulldogs were scheduled to compete at the Conference outdoor meet in May, at which time they hoped to notch their 10th straight championship. But before the MIAA engagement at Warrensburg, the thincladsmen had dual encounters with Central Missouri State, Northwest Missouri State, and Lincoln University. They were also slated to participate in the Kansas and Drake Relays.

Tennis performers, somewhat inexperienced at several positions, saw their consecutive victory string in duals snapped at 30 on March 23 when a rugged Bradley squad subdued them. 7-2. They also were forced to settle for second in the seventh annual Northeast Missouri State College Invitational, an event they had captured five years in succession before this season. However, the racquet men had posted a respectable 5-1 record in duals after April 15. Their victims included Graceland College twice, Quincy College, Missouri University, and Western Illinois. Coach Ralph Pink's netmen have their sights set on Northeast Missouri's fifth consecutive MIAA Conference title when they defend their crown in May.

Last year's baseball team managed only one triumph in 13 attempts, but Coach Sam Nugent felt his crew would be improved this spring. It appeared he might be right in the early stages. After the first 11 contests, the Bulldogs carried a 5-6 ledger, having won three in succession.

Although Coach William Richerson's golf squad had lost several key men from the 1967 runnerup finisher in the MIAA Conference matches, the mentor was not pessimistic about the 1968 campaign. His linksmen were 2-2 after the second week of April, with victories over William Penn College and Lincoln University.

Bulldog pitcher Larry Anderson, throws a strike to an unidentified Maryville batter. The Bulldogs play home games on the new College diamond located south of Stokes Stadium, and west of the Campbell Apartments.

Bulldog catcher Charles Blakley is about to connect for a solid single during a home baseball game with Central Methodist. The Bulldogs under Coach Sam Nugent, improved the early record over 1967.

A second shipment of the College Centennial Plates has arrived and plates are again available in the Alumni Office, or may be ordered with the convenient order blank, below. The beautiful plate by Wedgewood of Barlaston, England, is painted in black, highlighted by a purple ribbon encircling "100th Anniversary." A three-sixteenth gold band trims the 10½ inch plate which is basically white. The plate, the principal souvenir of the 1967 Centennial Year, is being sold on a first-come first-served basis.
