Cupelli, Noe lead Faculty/Staff Drive

Ralph Cupelli, assistant to the vice president for academic affairs, and Eva Jane Noe, professor of special education, recently volunteered to serve as co-chairs for the 1995-96 Faculty/Staff Drive for the NMSU Development Fund. The annual drive will kick off at the end of January following the volunteer format of recent years. A participation goal of 55 percent is being sought.

Additionally, 33 area coordinators will assist Cupelli and Noe by asking colleagues to support the NMSU Development Fund during the main drive which is scheduled for the month of February. Gifts to the Development Fund are tax deductible and may be restricted to specific academic divisions, named scholarships or lectureships, athletics or given unrestricted (to be used where the need is greatest).

The Faculty/Staff Drive has gained in popularity over the last few years with a record 44 percent participation achieved in FY95, up from 28 percent a year earlier.

"We are emphasizing participation over the size of the gift because it affords faculty an opportunity to gain larger funding through grants and private funding. High participation percentage is often a key criterion in awarding grants," Noe said.

Cupelli said, "These annual gifts provide necessary funding for academic divisions, scholarships and loans, lecture series, the Lyceum Series and other important University projects, to name just a few."

The annual drive will continue through February with periodic updates in the Northeast Today.

Baldwin Lecture set for Feb. 9

Dr. Carol Geary Schneider, executive vice president of the Association of American Colleges and Universities, will present this year's Baldwin Lecture on Feb. 9. Schneider's topic, "The Learning We Need for a Diverse Democracy," will address connections between what students learn in the liberal arts and sciences and the needs of our society for the future.

A historian by training, Schneider received a bachelor's degree from Mount Holyoke College and a doctorate in early modern history from Harvard University. She has taught at the University of Chicago, DePaul University, Chicago State University and Boston University.

Schneider has been on the staff of AAC&U since 1987. Her work there includes directing several national initiatives on "re-forming majors," "engaging diverse cultural legacies in the core curriculum" and assessing student learning. She will spend the day on campus meeting faculty, staff and students and sharing her perspectives as a leader in the national higher education arena.

The Baldwin Lecture is Northeast's founder's day celebration named in honor of Joseph Baldwin, pioneer educator, founder and first president. The Baldwin Lecture was initiated in 1957 by then-President Walter H. Ryle "to help perpetuate the spirit of Baldwin's industry and vision and to provide a sense of continuity for Northeast in a world of rapid change."

A dinner will precede the lecture; tickets cost $5 and are available in the Faculty Development Office. No tickets are needed for the lecture, which is free and open to the public.

Fix-It help is on-line

"If it's broke, inquire there." If you have ever investigated the NMSU Life section of the on-line computer system, you may have discovered this message next to the "FixQues" heading.

"FixQues" or Fix-It Questions, is an E-mail bulletin board where students or any member of the campus community can ask campus-related fix-it questions.

FixQues is the brain-child of Tim Scherrer, facilities supervisor.

"It provides a conduit directly from the student to me or Gene Schneider (Physical Plant director)," Scherrer said.

Scherrer, who tags his answers with "TAS, fix-it-guy," uses the billboard to post trivia questions about campus as well as answer general fix-it questions.

Comments on the FixQues range from questions on construction progress to broken doors to individual residence hall room problems.

Scherrer tries to check the program daily, but cautions that if students have immediate problems, they should call the Fix-It Line at 785-4687.

The FixQues service not only benefits students, but the facilities staff as well.

"It's a good way to get a little feedback," Scherrer said. "We keep track of what's going on."

Scherrer reiterates that if a student has a problem such as an outer door not locking properly, it would be wise to call the Fix-It Line or E-mail him directly at AD16.

Offering A Helping Hand

What began as an idea in November of 1989 came to fruition in 1995 for the late W. Edwin (38) and Hazel Kuhn Hartford (37). Northeast Missouri State University recently received a $200,000 bequest from the Hartfords's estate to establish a scholarship for northeast Missouri area students

Ed, who grew up in Kirksville, and Hazel, who was raised in nearby LaPlata, thought of themselves as ordinary people. They lived with an optimistic outlook and a desire to extend a helping hand whenever possible.

One of their desires was to create a scholarship at Northeast to assist graduates of area high schools in their pursuit of a college education. They were prompted by the memory of their own difficulties in college when money was tight. Thus, the Hartfords began working with the University in 1989 to establish an endowed scholarship funded by a $100,000 bequest.

"We had a rough time when we were going through school and money was not that available. There were some who could have gone if they'd had the means to go, and were eligible and qualified, but couldn't make the payments. So, we talked about it and thought it was one of the places where we could do some good," Hazel said when the bequest was first established.

Ed once stated, "There really isn't any big philosophical thing about it. It will just be an investment in students who otherwise would not have a chance."

In 1992, Hazel passed away after an extended illness, and in her memory Ed turned again to the University to revise their original bequest and increase the scholarship fund to $200,000. Ed's actions were motivated by love, and by a desire to offer a helping hand to a greater number of students.

"I couldn't think of a better way to use the money," he stated. This final act of generosity came just prior to Ed's death in June 1994.

The W. Edwin and Hazel Kuhn Hartford Memorial Scholarship will provide financial assistance for up to eight young men and women attending Northeast from high schools in the Missouri counties of Adair, Chariton, Carroll, Knox, Linn, Macon, Putnam, Schuyler, Scotland and Sullivan. The four-year renewable scholarships will be awarded based on scholastic achievement and financial need.

President Jack Magruder offered words of appreciation. "We are deeply touched and honored by the generosity of Ed and Hazel Hartford," Magruder said. "Because of the Hartfords we can provide greater opportunities for area students. The University and northeast Missourians will be forever grateful."

Indeed, many students will benefit from Ed and Hazel Hartford's foresight and generosity. Just as they had hoped in 1989, the Hartfords will continue to offer a helping hand for generations to come.

President Jack Magruder receives the Freshman Record from seniors Tim Hueblein (center) and Greg Pfeuffer, members of the Delta Chi national fraternity. The Freshman Record, a pictorial for the 1995-96 freshman class, was distributed by Delta Chi last semester. It features 40 pages of photographs and mini-biographies of freshmen, university information and a welcome from President Magruder. Delta Chi has produced the Freshman Record since 1982.
