NMSU Students Dominate Pageant

Miss Kirksville and court—NMSU senior Christie Dean was all smiles as she was crowned Miss Kirksville, Dec. 17, in Baldwin Auditorium.

The key to winning a pageant is not just having a pretty face. According to NMSU senior Christie Dean, it takes a lot of time and hard work as well.

Dean was crowned Miss Kirksville 1987, at the 18th Annual Miss Kirksville Pageant in Baldwin Auditorium, Dec. 17.

Along with the title, Dean received a $500 scholarship, a $500 wardrobe and $250 in gift certificates from local merchants.

The pageant, which Dean and 10 other girls participated in, included interviews, and swimsuit, talent and evening gown competitions.

"I think a lot of the Miss Missouri program. It's a good way to be able to complete an education. It is not a beauty pageant. It is a scholarship pageant. That's the idea of the whole program," Dean said.

The Calendar Issue of the Northeast Today will be published Feb. 2. Entry deadline for this issue is 5 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 28. All entries must be submitted on the forms in the Public Relations Office, A/H 202.

All of the finalists were NMSU students: sophomore Angie Petre, first runner-up and Miss Congeniality; senior Valerie Widmer, second runner-up; sophomore Lori Zoll, third runner-up; and senior Amy Rosine, fourth runner-up. Each finalist received scholarship money ranging from $25 to $150.

"I can't say I was surprised because I've worked very hard and have lots of pageant experience, this being my 10th. But I was not over-confident either. I knew it was going to be tough," Dean said.

By no means a newcomer to pageants, over the past three years, Dean has participated in 10. This was the third Miss Kirksville pageant for her. She encourages girls to get involved with pageants and said winning is not the only thing you get in return for the participation.

"The most important thing is the scholarship money. They have very well paid for my college education," Dean said.

Dean cited gaining personal growth and communication skills also. As a result of the pageant interviews, Dean feels she has gained the confidence and skills necessary for a successful job interview. Pageant interviews not only deal with personal questions about the contestant, but require input on current events and political issues.

"You've got to be up on what's going on in the world and sure of your opinions," Dean said.

Another important requirement of pageant contestants is talent; 50 percent of the judging is based solely upon it. Classical piano is Dean's talent, which she is still perfecting after 14 years. She continuously prepares for the pageants she enters.

"You really have to learn how to manage your time. It takes a lot out of your social life too. But I have no regrets. It has become an important part of my life. It seems like it just gets into your blood, and you've got to keep going for it," Dean said.

Dean, an English education major, is the daughter of Ron and Carol Dean of Peculiar, Mo. She has lived in Kirksville for the past three years, including summers. As Miss Kirksville, she wants to help out the community in whatever way she can.

"Even though I'm not a home-town girl, I do feel that it's my home town. I feel that if they give me the chance, I can fit in real well and do some good things for them," Dean said.

Winning the title of Miss Kirksville also qualifies Dean to vie for the crown of Miss Missouri, which she has begun preparing for already.

"I definitely want to make top 10 in the Miss Missouri Pageant this summer," she said.
