KENT A. FARNSWORTH
President, Crowder College

Kent A. Farnsworth, former director of admissions and registrar at Northeast, is president of Crowder College at Neosho, Missouri.

Farnsworth received a bachelor's degree in political science from Brigham Young University after attending high school in Tehran, Iran, and the United States. The college president earned a master's degree in international relations from California State University-Sacramento and a master's in guidance and counseling from Northeast in 1979. Farnsworth also holds a doctorate in mass communication/public relations from the University of Iowa.

After leaving Northeast, Farnsworth worked for the Eastern Iowa Community College District in Davenport. There, he served as associate vice chancellor for student development and dean of students on the Muscatine campus before becoming president of Crowder College in June 1985.

Farnsworth has presented lectures at numerous educational conferences and has written extensively for educational and popular magazines. His articles have appeared in such publications as Change magazine, Community and Junior College Journal, The Journal of Communication Inquiry and Seventeen magazine.

In addition to his academic background, Farnsworth worked several years for National Semiconductor Corporation in Santa Clara, California, in production management. Farnsworth also served five years as a United States Air Force pilot during the Vietnam War.

COMMENCEMENT CUSTOMS AND COSTUMES

The colorful ceremonies of Commencement derive from practices originating in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the 12th and 13th centuries, the scholars were usually clerics as well, and consequently they adopted costumes similar to those of their monastic orders. Cold halls and drafty buildings made caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods a necessity for warmth. Probably because of the costumes' religious heritage, they remained drab until the universities began to pass from the control of the church, whereupon some aspects of the costumes took on brighter hues. However, old prints and engravings reveal a strong similarity between the regalia worn in early universities and the academic costume worn today.

In light of our nation's strong English heritage, academic costume has been in use in the United States since colonial times. To establish a standard of uniformity with regard to the practice, an intercollegiate commission was formed which prepared a code for caps, gowns, and hoods that has been adapted by all institutions.

Originally round, the shape of the cap is now the more familiar mortarboard square—a shape which, according to ballad folklore, resembles a scholar's book.

The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship for it covers any dress which might indicate rank or social status.

The doctoral hood did not become a symbol of the degree until the time when robes and hoods were no longer fashionable for everyday wear. Although the present costume is reserved for ceremonial use, the color, cut and decoration of both the robe and hood signify the degree and specialization. There are literally hundreds of variations used around the world.

“OLD MISSOU”

“Old Missou” and “Old Missouri”

Our hearts the school has won,

Fondly cling we to the mem’ry

Of old “Missouri’s Son.”

Gladly thee our hearts we tender

By the dim and flick’ring light

Every lad a proud defender

Of the Purple and the White.
