Centennial Plate Now Available Through National Alumni Office

The long-awaited centennial plate, one of the permanent remembrances of the centennial, is expected to arrive soon. The fine china plates by Wedgwood of London, England, feature a design submitted in the early stages of the centennial by Charles J. Elam, director of Admissions of the Teachers College. The design was selected by a panel of judges from a number of entries in the plate contest.

The three color plate features portraits of the first seven presidents of the College along with the original Baldwin Hall, the modern Ryle Hall dormitory, and the Baldwin statue. The pictures are encircled by a gold border. The College name is around the 100th anniversary banner in the center of the plate.

The plate is back stamped in commemoration of the State Teachers College Centennial 1967. Advance orders are being received at the College Alumni office at $7.50 each. Checks should be made to the College Alumni Fund as the national Alumni Association is sponsoring the project and distributing the plates. Advance orders will be filled prior to the plate going on sale to the general public. A limited supply will be available.

Stanley H. Ambrosia, 1963, received the Master of Arts degree from Ball State University at Muncie, Indiana on August 18, 1967.

Flame to Second Century Becomes Reality at Ceremonial Lighting

By Robert L. McKinney
Chairman Centennial Committee

The story of The Flame To The Second Century involves a number of people. Some of them do not know of their involvement. One of those is Miss Berenice Beggs, assistant professor Emeritus of English who now resides in Moberly, Missouri. It was she who triggered a series of ideas which culminated with the ceremony of the lighting of the flame on September 2, 1967.

Since the author of this article was directly and indirectly involved with the events it is hoped that the reader will forgive the frequent use of the perpendicular pronoun.

In February 1964 I dropped in unexpectedly on then President Dr. Walter H. Ryle who was attending the National Education Association meeting in Atlantic City, New Jersey. It was then that Dr. Ryle told me that he would like me to become chairman of the Centennial Committee to arrange for observances in connection with the 100th anniversary of the founding of the College, following my anticipated retirement from the Army in 1965. After an appropriate hesitation of perhaps a couple of seconds I accepted. In the ensuing months we corresponded frequently regarding preliminary plans.

In the spring of 1965, prior to my return to the campus Dr. Ryle called a meeting of the Centennial Advisory Committee which was composed of approximately one hundred former students, faculty members, and friends of the College. The format and general outline of the Centennial year was discussed and suggestions were called for as to appropriate ideas to celebrate the upcoming event. The response was prompt, enthusiastic and imaginative.

Upon my return to the campus in September of 1965 Dr. Ryle turned over his files including minutes of the meeting and responses to the request for ideas. These I read with interest and some consternation. Here were hundreds of ideas some related and some unrelated. Many were practical and some impractical. It was readily apparent that a central theme was imperative around which all plans could revolve or some idea selected which would serve as a symbol for the entire centennial period.

Among the ideas submitted was one by Miss Beggs that the route of travel by Joseph Baldwin, in his search for a location of a normal school, from Macon to Kirksville be retraced, perhaps by a relay team. One morning sitting in the kitchen drinking a cup of coffee I was mulling over this suggestion. It would be fine, we could probably get the track team to participate but what would be the climax? The idea of Olympic runners came to mind. They carried a flame to light the torch to signal the opening of the Olympic games. At this point the flame and the traditional lamp of knowledge came together.

Following the idea came a long series of discussions of how to exhibit or display this symbol of the 100th anniversary. It was Dr. Ryle at one of the many committee meetings who christened it "The Flame To The Second Century." For some time the committee favored a fund drive to raise money to erect a tower patterned after the old Baldwin Hall tower which dominated the campus for so many years, and which was so affectionately remembered. Artist sketches were prepared cost estimates solicited and tentative plans made for a fund drive. Eventually these plans were put into mothballs and the manner of executing the flame left in the hands of a committee consisting of the chairman, P. M. Marr, then president of the Board of Regents, Harvey B. Young, Jr. and Regent James R. Reinhard.

Budgetary considerations became increasingly important and in order to conserve funds it was decided that it would be necessary to display the flame in as simple a manner as possible until plans for a more permanent display could be developed. Mr. Marr recommended the site at the north entrance to the campus near the flagpole. Fortunately this location was also most convenient to the natural gas line which was subsequently laid.

Several attempts were made to secure a metal lamp which would resemble a lamp of knowledge. All were unsuccessful. The ideas of casting a lamp out of some type of metal was discarded because of cost. Finally I turned to Mr. Richard L. Miller, instructor in Ceramics who came nobly to the rescue. At exactly the right time Mr. Neil King of Associated Natural Gas produced the burner required and Mr. Miller devoted almost the entire month of August to the design, and creation of the lamp and the lamp assembly.

The mechanics of lighting the flame were quite simple. A candle lighter was borrowed from the Presbyterian Church and Mr. Dan Funk of the Maintenance Division fabricated an extension long enough to reach the burner. Rehearsals the day before the ceremony and again on the morning of the second of September assured that the flame would light.

The question of who would actually light the flame was solved by having the chairman of the Centennial Committee strike the match which was applied to the lighter held jointly by the president of the Board of Regents Mr. James R. Reinhard, the President of the College Dr. F. Clark Elkins, and President Emeritus Walter H. Ryle, Director of the Centennial.

Upon signal Mr. Joe Harker of the Maintenance force opened the gas valve the flame was applied and the second century was officially opened.

On the evening of September 2, 1967 when all the distinguished visitors were gone two small boys were passing by the site of the flame. One of them said to the other, "What's that?" The other apparently much better informed said, "Oh, that's the lamp. They light that every hundred years." So far he's right.

Alumni Director Reports Association Membership of 1750

The first annual meeting of the National Alumni Association will be held on Friday evening, October 27, immediately following the Centennial Alumni Banquet. The meeting will be held in the new College Student Union Building. I hope each of you can attend this important meeting for the election of officers for the coming year.

Our membership has grown to 1750 as of September 30. We have two months left in our charter membership campaign and we certainly hope that you will encourage your former classmates to become charter members. Remember, anyone holding academic credit from the college is eligible for membership and we know that we have not reached thousands of our nongraduates. We will sincerely appreciate your help in telling them about the Association and encouraging them to join prior to the close of the charter year.

The chart is a breakdown of members by classes and of course nongraduates are not included in these figures. We are planning class membership campaigns for the future and your assistance in this project will be appreciated.

The Association is off to a good start and with the election of officers and the organization of committees I am sure that we can accomplish many things for the mutual betterment of the State Teachers College and its graduates and former students which is the sole purpose of the Alumni Association.

Bulldog Football Team Bounces Back After Losses to SIU, Parsons College

After two opening losses, Coach Marv Braden's football Bulldogs evened their record at 2-2-0, going into the always tough MIAA Conference competition.

They bounced back from successive losses to Southern Illinois and powerful Parsons, 18-7 and 49-7, to edge Kansas State of Pittsburg, 14-13, and Wisconsin State of LaCrosse, 20-9.

In both the Pittsburg and LaCrosse skirmishes, the Bulldogs were outplayed in the statistical department. The Kansas Gorillas rolled up 276 total yards to Kirksville's 269, and the Wisconsin Indians accumulated 192 yards to the purple and white's 87.

Diminutive sophomore Lloyd Weise of Baxter, Iowa, 5'8", 162 pound tailback, paced the Bulldogs in rushing with 109 yards after four games. Weise exploded for two brilliant kick-off returns, 88 yards to open the second half against Parsons, and 101 yards to start the game against Wisconsin State.

Freshman quarterback Don Cummings of Lombard, Illinois, had passed for 358 yards and one touchdown. Veteran signal caller Rick Gorzynski of Chicago had picked up 65 yards through the air and one TD. Gorzynski sustained a sprained knee in the opening minutes of the season opener and did not see action again until the Wisconsin State battle.

In their first MIAA battle, at home, against the Maryville Bearcats, the Bulldogs dropped a 13-7 decision on a touchdown pass in the final two minutes of play. With the Hickory Stick at stake, the two teams showed strong defenses and a great deal of determination in their offensive attacks.

The Bulldogs opponents for the Homecoming game will be the Central Missouri State Mules from Warrensburg.

Selected as tri-captains for this year's Bulldog football team were: kneeling, John Newcomb and Rick Cash. Standing, Rick Gorzynski.

Two Wins Open Bulldog Cross-Country Season

Opening the 1967 season with two impressive dual victories, the Teachers College cross-country team appeared to be on its way to a successful year.

Under the tutelage of new coach Tom Songster, the harriers trounced Lincoln, 15-47, on September 29, and then upset Western Illinois, 27-28, on October 6, both at home. Ron Werling of Tipton, Iowa, an all-american performer last fall for the Bulldogs, finished first in the Lincoln encounter and second in the close battle with the Leathernecks. Western Illinois' Troy Roberts captured first in the October 6th four-mile race with a time of 20:25.0 to shatter Werlings's record of 20:49.8. Werling established the old mark last year against Central Missouri State College.

The Bulldogs also participated on September 24 in the AAU Lake Keomah State Park Run in Oskaloosa, Iowa. Four Bulldog performers finished in the first four positions.

Songster's top runners in early competition were Werling, freshman Pat Sullivan of St. Louis, Keith Allen of Eldon, Iowa, Wayne Denney of Chicago, and Tom Logan of Sedalia.
