Sum '78

The Lincoln Collection of Fred D. and Ethel Schwengel has found a permanent home at Northeast Missouri State University.

Highlighting the collection is a series of seven murals with Lincoln themes by Helen J. Hinrichsen of Davenport, Iowa. "Springfield Illinois," shows the part Lincoln played in relocating the Illinois capital from Vandalia to Springfield.

PRESIDENT'S COMMENTS

In this issue you will read of two major expressions of gratitude to the University by alumni: Fred and Ethel Schwengel's gift of their Lincoln Collection to NMSU and the establishment of a Mass Communications Scholarship by Keith and Sandy Dinsmore. In both of these cases, as well as in others, alumni are saying: "If it weren't for Northeast, I wouldn't be what I am today. I hope my gift helps someone else."

These tangible expressions of continued interest in and support of the University by alumni and friends have served to enhance the quality of the University, to reward scholarship, to assist students in need of financial help, and to reward outstanding achievement in areas including art, music, science, nursing, business, and athletics. Each and every gift has been greatly appreciated and put to good use. Often alumni ask: "How can I contribute?" The answer is simple: Contact my office or simply send us a check. Checks can be made out to the NMSU Development Fund and mailed to the President's Office. There are many ways that the gifts can be used. If you wish, you can designate your gift for a particular use.

All gifts are tax deductible. Should you like more information, call or write. And to those of you who have already contributed, another thank you!

Charles J. McClain
President

LETTERS

Dear Mr. Harrison:

It has been a source of great joy for me to have the news found in our Alumni Magazine. Addresses of old and dear friends is the special part. As a result of the printing of my name and address in the magazine, I have had letters from friends of fifty years ago. It's hard to realize so many years have passed since I was in school in Kirksville. Precious memories make our todays and our tomorrows even more wonderful. Best regards and many wishes for your continued success.

Sincerely,

Charity Griffin Richards

Dear Mr. Harrison:

Although distance has prevented me from personally participating in alumni activities, I have kept in touch, thanks to the news media of NEMOSCOPE. It has always been a source of pleasure to have received the B.S. degree from Northeast Missouri State Teachers College.

June 30th I will retire from my position as Chairman of the Social Science Division and Professor of Economics at Orange Coast College, Costa Mesa, Calif. This completes thirty years with this community college. My wife, Fran (a graduate from Central Missouri State) and I will continue to reside at 2025 N. Olive in Santa Ana, Calif.

Best wishes for your continued success.

Sincerely,

Miles W. Eaton
Class of 1935

Dear Mr. Harrison:

It is so nice to read NEMOSCOPE - some sad items at times but time marches on. The last edition had an item about a man named Dr. Martin. My sister was his patient for a brief time in January, so I cut that and sent it to her. People of my era are thinning out, it seems.

You will find enclosed my check for another year's dues. My dear husband was very ill this past winter but survived one more surgery. The only service I can think of is an up-to-date registry of members, if such is available.

I had an inquiry from a friend about Mrs. Emma Hulbert (Mrs. Dr. Ray Hulbert of old A.S.O.). Some of us babysat for her back in the early twenties.

Best wishes to you and your staff.

Dear Mr. Harrison

It was a pleasure that Northeast Missouri State University Alumni Association was formed in Japan and I was informed about the opportunity of the membership application. Enclosed please find $50.00 for the life membership.

My memory goes back 23 years ago when I arrived at Kirksville and spent a year at Northeast Missouri State Teachers College. I hope that the brick buildings are still there and I wish to visit the campus sometime.

Sincerely yours

Dear Mr. Harrison

I am enclosing check for another year's subscription to the NEMOSCOPE. I enjoy the alumni activities as well as the news of present day students.

I am still trying to see as much of this old world as possible. This spring I "did" the British Isles; Ireland, Scotland, Wales and England. The tour was 18 days and we stayed in 11 elaborate hotels. The castles and cathedrals are fabulous. The homes, churches and burial places of kings and authors was a good review of history and literature.

Fulton has a Memorial Church which Churchill attended in London. After his famous speech here he had his church, St. Mary of Aldermanbury, placed on the Westminster campus and his statue has been placed in front. The story of this project hangs on the wall of the palacial castle of Blenheim, England, where he was born.

The tour was really great.

Thanks for sending NEMOSCOPE.

Dear Mr. Harrison:

I haven't been in Kirksville in many years but I graduated from there in 1911. I'm 87 years old now and I'm going through old records and found these of Mr. Kirk the President in my day.

I taught for seven years but in 1918 became a physical therapist in the army. I was very happy in this profession until I retired at 72.

Mr. Kirk was a great old boy.

Excuse my poor script. My eyes are not so hot any more.

Very truly,

Helen M. Bradley

Dear Mr. Harrison:

Thanks very much for sending me another copy of NEMOSCOPE. It is as if you knew that this issue was full of items of interest to me.

A note of special interest was the picture of the old rooming house on South High, for it was there that I first began, in 1921, dating Miss Ruth Waller, later to become my wife. The only thing missing in the picture was the porch swing, which the other girls gracefully yielded when we had a date!

It was a pleasure to read of the honors for Dr. Elden Lichty, an old tennis partner, and for Otho Barnett, a fellow student in I.A. I was glad to read of the retirement of Dr. Claude Shaver, with whom I shared some dramatic experiences, and of Marion Gates, who was Superintendent at La Belle when I had a similar position at Knox City.

Unfortunately, too many of the familiar names were connected with death notices: Duard Moore, Thomas Hutsell, Coach "Curley" or "Mac," (who taught my coaching class), Frank Austin (whom I used to see occasionally at Texas meetings), Miss Whitson, Dr. Beggs. It was through the death notice concerning her husband that I heard again of Pearle Hoselton Thurlo, with whose relatives I boarded while teaching my first rural school near Browning in 1920.

You may not have received notice of the death this spring of my good friend Dr. James Dougherty (1925) of Denton, Texas.

As with Bob Hope, who shared a 75th birthday with me, "Thanks for the memory".

Cordially,

J. Lloyd Rogers (1927)

Dear Mr. Harrison:

May I thank you for sending me recent copies of the Alumni paper? I have enjoyed them and was glad to get news of many former friends and acquaintances, but saddened to hear of the passing of so many.

If possible I would like to attend the 1978 Homecoming.

In order not to miss any news I will be glad to receive further correspondence at my new address where I have recently bought a home:

OUTSTANDING ALUMNUS IN COMMUNICATION--Keith Dinsmore (third from left), a newspaper publisher in Iowa and Missouri, receives the 1978 "Outstanding Alumnus in Communication" Award during Communication Week April 10-14 at Northeast Missouri State University. Making the presentation is Diane Walker, president of the NMSU Mass Communication Club. Also present were University President Charles J. McClain and Mrs. Sandy Dinsmore.

Iowa publisher named Outstanding Alumnus

Keith Dinsmore, publisher of 18 weekly newspapers in southern Iowa and northern Missouri, has been honored as the 1978 Outstanding Alumnus in Communication at Northeast Missouri State University.

Dinsmore, a 1973 graduate, accepted his award at the opening ceremonies of Communication Week April 10-14. His wife, Sandy, also attended.

The award was presented by the NMSU Alumni Association and the Mass Communication Club.

The Fremont, Iowa, newspaperman discussed the role of the small town newspaper in a talk before about 75 students and faculty members on the morning of Monday, April 10.

The most important principle of a small town newspaper editor or any editor, Dinsmore said, is "to achieve a reputation of fairness and honesty."

To maintain good human relations, an editor may bend the rules but never his or her principles, he said.

The small town newspaper editor has the opportunity to show a genuine concern about his or her community. "A paper needs to truly reflect the community it serves," he said.

The editor can give his or her newspaper "a personal touch." One of the most successful ways he has found to communicate has been through his own personal column.

The publishing career of the Dinsmores began in 1973 when Keith and Sandy bought the Fremont Gazette and the Hedrick Journal. They then acquired the other 16 newspapers.

The Dinsmores also have established the Southern Iowa Press, a printing plant in Fremont. The Dinsmore newspapers and those of six other publishers are printed there.

Before he entered the newspaper business, Dinsmore worked for the social fraternity of Sigma Tau Gamma. In 1966, he was promoted to executive director of the national organization, holding the job for seven years.

Today Dinsmore continues to serve his fraternity as secretary and director of the Goetze Educational Foundation, the charitable and educational organization which has scholarships for the Sigma Tau Gamma chapter and other students at NMSU.

He also is a member of the alumni association board for the Beta Chapter of Sigma Tau Gamma and since 1976 has been a member of the fraternity's national board.

At NMSU Dinsmore was editor of the Index, the student newspaper, in 1963. He also was involved in many other campus activities.

Now he is in charge of 18 newspapers including the Fremont Gazette, Hedrick Journal, Eddyville Tribune, Batavia Beacon, Eldon Forum, New Sharon Star, Marion County News, North English Record, Moravia Union, The Clarion (Packwood), Moulton Weekly Tribune, Lost Nation Press, Midland Times, The Pioneer Herald (Mechanicsville), New Market Monitor, and the Midwest Hereford Highlights, all in Iowa. In Missouri, his newspapers are the Hopkins Journal and the Fairfax Forum.

Communication alumni set up scholarship

Dr. Charles J. McClain, president of Northeast Missouri State University, and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Dinsmore of Fremont, Iowa, have announced the establishment of the Dinsmore Mass Communication Scholarship at NMSU. The scholarship, in the amount of $500, is being provided each year by Keith and Sandy Dinsmore through the NMSU Development Fund.

"Anything I am or hope to be is, to a great extent, the result of the opportunities provided me by Northeast Missouri State," Dinsmore said. "This in a small way is an expression of our love for this University and the people who have helped us."

The scholarship will be awarded each year to a student wishing to pursue a career in Mass Communication. In announcing the scholarship fund, the Dinsmores said they plan to fully endow the scholarship to provide a lasting benefit to the students.

The Dinsmores are the publishers of 18 weekly newspapers in Iowa and Missouri. For eight years Keith was with the Sigma Tau Gamma national fraternity, seven of which as executive director. In 1973 Keith and Sandy purchased the Fremont Gazette, his hometown paper, and the Hedrick Journal to begin their newspaper careers.

In addition to these duties, Keith is president of the Southern Iowa Press, a member of the Iowa and Missouri Press Associations, and a member of the national board of directors Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity. Most recently he was named the Outstanding Alumnus in Communications by Northeast Missouri State University.

He is a founder and secretary of the Goetze Educational Foundation, which administers a scholarship and award program for members of the NMSU chapter and other students, and is on the board of the Beta Alumni Association of Sigma Tau Gamma. While an undergraduate, he was editor of the student newspaper, the Index, and sports editor of the student yearbook, the Echo.

"Keith is an inspiration to us all. He serves as an example of what can be accomplished with hard work, dedication of purpose and a belief in what is possible. I am pleased that he and Sandy have chosen to make a tangible recognition of the role of their University in their lives, Northeast Missouri State, with the establishment of this scholarship," President McClain said.

Dr. H. Chandler Monroe

Registered parliamentarian

Dr. H. Chandler Monroe, professor of speech communication at Northeast Missouri State University, has completed all requirements to be a professional registered parliamentarian. Professional registered parliamentarians serve as consultants for organizations, conventions and in other areas upon request.

The examination is given by the National Association of Parliamentarians with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo. The questions are based upon the parliamentary authority adopted by NAP of "Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised."

The comprehensive examination tests the applicant's general knowledge, problem solving and research. Many hours of study are necessary to pass the examination successfully.

Dr. Monroe has served extensively in the community as parliamentarian for Missouri District of Optimist International; Northeast Missouri Teachers Association; Missouri Association of Classroom Teachers; Kirksville Family YMCA; Language and Literature Division of NMSU; and First Church of Christ, Scientist, Moberly.

Dr. Monroe has taught at the University since 1960. His previous experience includes teaching at Hannibal High School; Fairfield (Iowa) High School; University of Missouri-Columbia; and Culver-Stockton College at Canton.

His education includes a B.A. in Education with emphasis in English and dramatics from Principia College in Elsau, Ill., and an M.A. and a Ph.D. in speech and dramatic art from the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Uncertainties of Future

The uncertainties confronting college graduates were discussed by a recent graduate of Northeast Missouri State University at Spring Commencement Friday morning, May 12.

Dr. Phyllis Mullenix, a 1970 magna cum laude graduate, told the 900 students and their parents and friends that the first and foremost concern of most graduates is the planning of a lifetime career.

Dr. Mullenix is an instructor in the Department of Neuropathology of Harvard Medical School in Boston. She also serves as a research associate of the Department of Psychiatry of the Children's Hospital Medical Center.

She recommended that the graduates "become an expert or a master of one small but marketable skill, be a jack-of-all-trades only in your spare time." That area of expertise should allow expression of an individual's imagination.

A second uncertainty students graduating from NMSU might have facing a career is how well their education in Kirksville has prepared them. Preparation at NMSU has only two differences from bigger or better known Eastern universities--students don't speak with an Eastern accent and don't pay high tuition here.

"Two factors any of us can do without," she said.

The last uncertainty perplexing graduates is how to make contributions to a society so developed that it can "send a man to the moon, perform surgery with a laser beam, converse with chimpanzees via computers and confuse millions annually with impenetrable income tax forms."

With experience and further education, a student will learn that many things are yet to be discovered, she said.

"In other words, with further education, you learn how little you really know, and, a more comforting thought is, you learn how little everyone else knows."

Also during Commencement, 290 honor graduates with the highest grade point averages were recognized. Baccalaureate students receiving honors were 62 summa cum laude (3.75 and above on a 4.0 scale); 95 magna cum laude (3.5-3.74 on a 4.0 scale) and 133 cum laude (3.25-3.49 on a 4.0 scale).

Three students who achieved perfect 4.0 grade point averages placed the traditional wreath at the foot of a statue of Joseph Baldwin, the University's founder and first president. The presentation of the wreath culminated the procession across the campus quadrangle made by the graduates accompanied by faculty and administration.

The top graduates are: Donna Lynn Fisher, an elementary education major from Shelbyville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fisher; Rhonda Radine Laird, a mathematics and business administration major from St. Louis, daughter of Mildred and Harold Barton; and Julie Ann Relford, a special education major from Moberly, mother of Leslie and Lynn Relford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Rauscher, Gillette, Wyo.

Northeast poet receives grant

Dr. Jim Barnes, associate professor of comparative literature at Northeast Missouri State University, has received a National Endowment for the Arts Creative Writing Fellowship. A $7,500 grant accompanies the fellowship.

Dr. Barnes received the award in recognition of his achievement in poetry. At the University he edits "The Chariton Review," an internationally distributed magazine of poetry, fiction and translation.

A recent collection to feature his poems is "Heartland II: Poets of the Midwest." A volume of his own poems will be published early in 1979.

Dr. Barnes has taught at NMSU since 1970. His education includes a B.A. in English and Speech from Southeastern Oklahoma State University and an M.A. and a Ph.D. in Comparative Literature from the University of Arkansas.

Named Vice-President

L. Wayne Farrell (B.S. 1963) has been elected to the position of Vice President-Taxes of Fuqua Industries of Atlanta, Ga.

Prior to joining Fuqua, Farrell served as assistant treasurer and director of taxes for Akzona Incorporated in Ashville, N.C. His previous experience includes 15 years of tax experience with Celanese Corporation in Charlotte, N.C., and Ernst and Ernst, Certified Public Accountants in Des Moines.

Professionally, he is a past president of the Carolinas-Virginia Chapter of the Tax Executives Institute and presently serves as a member of the International Board of Directors Executive Committee. He also is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the North Carolina Association of Certified Public Accountants.

A native of Missouri, he received a B.S. in Accounting from Northeast Missouri State University. He and his wife, Cheryl, and their two children will reside in Atlanta.

Faculty and staff emeriti honored

by Cathy Dvorak

Eleven faculty and staff members were honored at Spring and Summer Commencements for their service to Northeast Missouri State University. Each person has been granted emeritus status by the NMSU Board of Regents.

They are Miss Martha Brockman, reference librarian emeritus; Mrs. Gwendolyn Durham, associate professor emerita of secretarial studies; Denman C. Evans, assistant professor emeritus of science; Dr. Massye Goins, professor emerita of education; Dr. William H. Kitts, associate professor emeritus of social science education; Dr. D. D. Nothdurft, professor emeritus of physics; Mrs. Elizabeth J. Schuetz, serials librarian emerita; Mrs. Rose Shanight, assistant professor emerita of home economics education; Dr. Bing Kun Shao, professor emeritus of economics; Eugene Smith, assistant professor emeritus of physics; and Miss Leona Whitton, assistant professor emerita of English.

Miss Martha Brockman—She retired in August 1978 after 12 years of service to the University as a reference librarian. Her future plans include volunteer service, pursuit of hobbies including handiwork such as crocheting, refinishing furniture and photography and travel.

Miss Brockman received her B.S. from NMSU and her M.S. in Library Science from the George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville. She also did graduate study at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Her professional affiliations include state offices in Alpha Delta Kappa teachers sorority for six years, American Association of University Women, American Library Association, Missouri Library Association, NMSU Community Teachers Association and the Missouri State Teachers Association.

Before she came to NMSU she taught in rural schools of Randolph County and high schools of Missouri. She was the director of the library in Central Methodist College, Fayette, for three years.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Durham retired on June 30 after 12 years of service to the University. In her retirement, she will travel and pursue interests she has not had time for during her years of teaching.

Her teaching career includes more than 45 years at rural and elementary schools in Polk and Henry counties and in secondary schools in Willard, Bismarck and Bonne Terre as well as at the University as an associate professor of secretarial studies.

She studied at Southwest Missouri State University, Springfield, receiving a B.S. in Education; at George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville earning both an M.A. and Specialist in Education; and at University of Northern Colorado, Greeley, completing courses for the doctoral program.

Her honors include membership in Pi Omega Pi undergraduate honor society in business education, Delta Pi Epsilon graduate business education national honor society and Delta Kappa Gamma women's education honorary.

She belongs to the Missouri State

Teachers Association, National Business Education Association and Missouri and National Vocational Education Associations.

Mrs. Durham is married to Dr. Winferd Durham, professor of business administration at NMSU.

Denman C. Evans—He retired on July 7 as assistant professor of science after 14 years of service to NMSU. Retirement plans for Evans include promotion of solar energy through the Solar Energy Club that he has founded in the Kirksville community. He also plans to travel to visit solar heating demonstration units.

Having a strong interest in energy, his most remembered achievement has been as a traveling science teacher for the Atomic Energy Commission.

His education includes a B.S.E. from Oklahoma State University; and graduate study at the University of Wyoming, Stanford University, Washington University, and University of Minnesota.

His wife, Mrs. Georgia Evans, Fine Arts Division secretary, also left the University on Aug. 1 after 13 years of service to the University.

Dr. Massye Goins—Dr. Goins retired from the University on Aug. 12 after 18 years of service to Northeast in the Education Division. She was professor of education.

In retirement, she will begin

Dr. William H. Kitts

Dr. D.D. Nothdurft

Mrs. Elizabeth Schuetz

Mrs. Rose Shanight

Dr. Bing Kun Shao

Eugene Smith

Miss Leona Whittom

another career on Oct. 1 working in the office and plant of Air Power Systems Company in Tulsa, Okla. She owns part of the company which makes air cylinders and valves that control winches.

At the University, her most remembered achievement has been to set up the first elementary school guidance program to serve Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Kansas.

Her education includes a B.S.E. from Northeast Oklahoma State University, Tahlequah; an M.Ed. from the University of Colorado; and an Ed.D. from University of Tulsa.

Her work experience has included eight years in the U.S. Air Force, five years as a case history writer for mental hospitals in Louisiana, and six years teaching in Tulsa public schools.

A highlight of her career has been to work at Boston University in 1952-53 in the background of juvenile delinquency earning credit for her doctorate.

Her professional organizations include Phi Delta Kappa education honorary, Missouri State Teachers Association and Northeast Missouri Guidance Association.

Dr. William H. Kitts--Dr. Kitts, associate professor of social science education, completed his 12-year career at the University on Aug. 11. He retired because of ill health.

Highlights of his career at NMSU include the development of the student internship program with Dr. Darrell Krueger, dean of instruction.

Dr. Kitts also finds his participation in the Overseas Faculty Development and Curriculum Seminar in Ethiopia and East Africa in summer 1970 most memorable. He wrote a self-study curriculum unit on "Ethiopia and Its Culture" based on that experience.

His education includes a B.S., M.A. and Ed.S. from Eastern Michigan University and an Ed.D. from Walden University, Naples, Fla.

As part of his work in social science education, Dr. Kitts served as president of both the Michigan and Missouri Councils for the Social Studies. He also represented NMSU to the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education.

Dr. Kitts, his wife, Beverly, and son, Douglas, plan to reside in Santa Maria, Calif., within a year.

Dr. D.D. Nothdurft--In his 17-year career at the University, he taught 620 student teachers and 150 master's degree candidates. He retired as professor of industrial education on June 30.

Dr. Nothdurft received a B.S.E. from Southeast Missouri State University, Cape Girardeau, a Master of Education from the University of Missouri-Columbia, and a Doctor of Education from the University of Wyoming, Laramie.

Before he came to NMSU, he was a teacher and administrator in Missouri schools for 24 years.

Among his honors, he was named Missouri Teacher of the Year at UMC.

He has 37 professional affiliations including Phi Delta Kappa education honorary.

He is still making his future plans.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schuetz--She retired on June 30 after 17 years of service to the University as a serials librarian. Included in her future plans is to move West.

Her two sons live in the West. They are Dr. Hugh A. Schuetz (B.S. 1970) and Dr. Charles B. Schuetz, both of Aberdeen, Wash. She was married to Dr. H.A. Schuetz Sr. who died in 1960.

Her education includes a B.S. from Bradley University, Peoria, Ill., and a B.S. in Library Science from the University of Illinois Library School, Champaign-Urbana.

Professionally she worked with the Peoria Public Library, Department of Justice Library, Great Lakes Naval Hospital, Kirksville High School and, finally, Pickler Memorial Library at NMSU.

She belongs to the American Library Association, Missouri Library Association, Missouri State Teachers Association and other education organizations.

Mrs. Rose Shanight--Assistant professor of home economics education, Mrs. Shanight retired in May 1978 after 12 years of service to the University.

In retirement, she plans to stay active in professional home economics organizations. She has served as state president of the Missouri Vocational Association, Missouri Home Economics Communications Council, Missouri Home Economics Teachers Association and Missouri Home Economics Association.

She recently was honored with an Outstanding Service Award from the Missouri Vocational Association. She also has received the outstanding home economist award for Northeast Missouri and the 1978 Outstanding Educator Award at NMSU given by Alpha Phi Sigma national honorary.

Her education includes a B.S.E. from NMSU and an M.S. from University of Wisconsin-Menomonie and graduate study at University of Missouri-Columbia, West Texas State and Washington University in St. Louis.

Mrs. Shanight has been involved in vocational education for 36 years including 21 years at Rockwood School District in St. Louis County.

She and her husband, Herbert, reside in LaPlata.

Dr. Bing Kun Shao--Dr. Shao, professor of economics, retired June 30 after 24 years of service to NMSU. His retirement plans include further research and writing on economic development.

Born in Canton, China, he received his early education including a Bachelor of Arts in Economics at National Peiping University in 1936 in that country.

In 1936, he came to the United States to continue his studies in economics at Oregon State University at Corvallis. He received his Master of Science in 1941 from that college.

He continued his education with the doctoral program in agricultural economics at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. In 1945-46, he received a fellowship to pursue his studies. In 1949, he worked as a teaching assistant at the University.

Upon receiving his Ph.D. in 1950, he was awarded a post-doctoral fellowship in 1951-52 by the U.S. State Department to conduct research on land tenure, agrarian reforms and economic development at the University of Wisconsin.

As a highlight of his career, Dr. Shao says he returned to his alma mater in summer 1977 to participate in an International Seminar on Agrarian Reform.

He and his wife, Bella, will continue to live in Kirksville.

Eugene Smith--Smith, assistant professor of physics, retired June 30 after 23 years at the University.

His future plans include travel along with some fishing, hunting and boating.

Smith's most remembered achievement was as a research associate at the University of Virginia helping to develop the atomic bomb and the guided missile.

His education includes a B.S.E. from NMSU; an M.S. from the University of Kentucky; and graduate study at the University of Virginia, University of Kansas, University of Missouri-Columbia and University of Missouri-Rolla.

He is married to Frances Smith.

Miss Leona Whittom--Miss Whittom retired July 7 after 21 years of service to the Language and Literature Division at NMSU. She was assistant professor of English.

She received her B.A. and B.S.E. from NMSU in 1936 and her M.A. from the University of Iowa, Iowa City, in 1941. She did additional graduate study at the University of Missouri-Columbia, University of Missouri-Kansas City and the University of Minnesota.

She was faculty sponsor of Cardinal Key national service honorary for 21 years as well as a member of the National Board of Governors for that organization. She also sponsored Sigma Sigma Sigma social sorority for 10 years.

She belongs to Delta Kappa Gamma International Teachers Honorary. She was secretary and president of the local chapter.

1902 Beauty turns 99

Mrs. Dora Cavett

A 1902 Beauty of Northeast Missouri State University recently celebrated her 99th birthday anniversary in Palm Desert, Calif.

Mrs. Dora Cavett attended the Normal School before it became NMSU from 1898 through 1902. She and several other young women were featured in the 1902 yearbook as beauties selected by each class.

Mrs. Cavett was honored at a celebration of the Desert Blind Association of which she is the oldest member.

She lives in California with her son, Sam Cavett (B.S. 1935).

University life and the first-time student

There's a new breed of student at Northeast Missouri State University, Kirksville.

A new breed in that they will be the first college graduates of their families. Of the 5,500 students that were enrolled at NMSU this past year, approximately 68 percent of them have fathers who never attended college and 66 percent have mothers who never attended college.

As members of this new breed, these students share special pressures in addition to the normal stresses of college life.

For many, the mere process of application and enrollment can be a major hurdle. Because they are first ones in their family to encounter the experience, they often don't know what to expect and don't have anyone to ask. For others, their presence in college is a rebellion from family norms.

In many cases, all of the family is watching this first-time graduate with high expectations.

How did we discover this new breed at NMSU? It was easy since we, the authors, recently were graduated from NMSU and are the first members of our respective families to receive a degree.

We'd like to introduce you to some members of NMSU's new breed, but first let us tell you about ourselves.

JEANNETTE LOVERN

When I first decided to consider college, I was met with opposition from all sides. In my family, the idea of guys attending college was okay (although none had so far), but the thought of a girl going to college was simply unthinkable.

But, I decided to try anyway. I applied to several colleges, and, once accepted, I applied for the various financial aids. Since I was rebelling against the ideas of my parents, I knew that financing college would be totally my responsibility.

NMSU offered me the most aid through the John J. Pershing Scholarship, which paid tuition, fees, room and board, and was renewable for all four years if a 3.50 grade point average (on a 4.00 scale) was maintained and leadership qualities displayed. I was able to maintain the scholarship all four years, and through summer jobs and a part-time job on the campus newspaper the Index, was able to finance my education totally on my own.

My mother and sister drove me to school that first time from my home in Brookfield. My dad, however, refused to have anything to do with the whole process. He did tuck a ten-dollar-bill into one of my suitcases though.

I went home a few weekends that first semester, but each time it grew increasingly hard to communicate. Beginning second semester, I only went home on vacations and the tension seemed to ease a bit. In fact, by the end of the first year, my dad even came to visit me once in the dorm.

As a mass communication major, I began working on the NMSU campus newspaper. I gained practical experience from this as well as a little money for those personal items. The part-time job helped my relationship with my folks as well. College they couldn't understand, but a part-time job they could.

We've learned a lot about each other through the past few years and we've both come to accept each other's point of view. They still don't understand why anyone would want to spend four years studying books when they could spend that four years working and earning money. And, I guess I don't understand how money can be such a motivating factor in anyone's life. But, we're both still learning.

And, in the meantime, I heard my mother say the other day, "Our youngest daughter is graduating from college this May. We're awfully proud of her."

TERRIE JO SNYDER

My initial interest in NMSU came from a suggestion made by my guidance counselor at Des Moines Lincoln High School where I graduated in 1971. At that time, I was interested in elementary education and he pointed out that NMSU was well-known for its teacher education program.

I was impressed with the friendliness and helpfulness I encountered on my first visit to NMSU as well as with the quiet charm of the well-kept campus. I decided to give NMSU a try.

My parents were very supportive of my desire to attend NMSU. They experienced a mixture of pride and excitement since I would be the first in my family to attend college. During the summers prior to my junior and senior years of high school, my parents and I refinished and resold used furniture to help with my "college fund." I also worked part-time for Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Once at NMSU, I found my classes interesting and the instructors knowledgeable and concerned. I especially appreciated the one-to-one relationship between instructors and students, because as a freshman, I was a little concerned whether I would make it academically. When grades were sent out at the end of my first semester, I was quite pleased.

During my second year at NMSU, I began to feel a growing dissatisfaction. After taking a few education courses, I started to feel quite uncertain about my major and began to question if college was really for me. To answer these questions, I decided to drop out until I could discover what I wanted. Shortly after leaving college, I married another NMSU student who wasn't really sure of his education future either. After working for two-and-a-half years at unfulfilling jobs, we decided to return to college.

We decided to go back to NMSU because we knew of the educational opportunities there and because NMSU's reasonable tuition rates made it possible for my husband and I to continue our education together.

Once back at NMSU, I made an appointment with the Counseling Office where vocational and interest inventories were administered to help students decide on their major field. My test results indicated that my strengths were in the areas of writing and communication. I then decided to major in mass communication, a new program at NMSU.

From my very first experience with the program, I knew I had finally found an area that I enjoyed and felt I could do well in. One of the greatest things about my major is the abundance of opportunity for hands-on experience. Since entering the program in the spring of 1977, I've served as news editor, assistant news editor, and assistant copyeditor on the campus newspaper, the Index.

LORNA SAUNDERS

Nineteen-year-old Lorna is the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Saunders of Brunswick, Mo., and is the first of the 21 children to attend college. Majoring in theatre and drama, Lorna hopes to be graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1981.

Of the 21 children, 18 are married. Lorna herself is pre-engaged, but right now, college is taking up most of her time.

Lorna's father is himself one of nine children and has lived in Brunswick, a town of 1400 people, most of his life. His education was cut short when he was young because he had to help support his ailing mother. He found work as a brick mason and plasterer and through diligent work, he became a brick mason in his own right.

Despite their own educational background, having a child in college is just fine with Lorna's parents. "We hope it works out well for her," her mother said in a somewhat detached manner.

"One of my older brothers says he's jealous of me, but they are all behind me 100 percent," Lorna said.

THERESE STELLAR

Breaking away from family norms concerning college was not a problem for Therese "Terrie" Stellar. "My parents weren't surprised when I decided to go to college. I just always intended to go and they knew it," she said.

Athletically active at Parkway West Senior High School in St. Louis, Terrie had no trouble obtaining a sports scholarship to NMSU. She maintained the scholarship by participating in tennis, softball, and field hockey at NMSU.

Her parents were proud of Terrie when she first decided to give college a try and have helped finance her education. That pride has continued throughout her college years because of her many accomplishments at NMSU. In addition to her achievements in sports, Terrie was selected for membership in Cardinal Key and Alpha Phi Sigma, both honorary academic organizations. Her senior year, she was selected to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

On May 12, Terrie was graduated from NMSU with a B.S.E. in Health and Physical Education. She wants to teach and coach in a large school and later move into an administrative position on the secondary school level.

Her parents are still proud.

DEBBIE DAY

"I don't think I could have made as good an education for myself anywhere else," explains Debbie Day, a junior from Mexico, Mo. She says she selected NMSU because of its size and friendliness. "It's amazing to me how many people I've met here," she said.

Debbie is a psychology major who, as many other NMSU students, finds education opportunities beyond those available in the classroom.

"Last summer I counseled four couples on a one-to-one basis. I used a lot of what I'm learning and have learned at NMSU. A year ago I couldn't have done that."

Debbie is pleased with NMSU's psychology department and describes it as a good program. "I enjoy people," she says. "That's why I'm in the psychology program."

Through several clubs at NMSU, Debbie gains a great deal of experience in dealing with others. She is a member of the Psychology Club, Unity, Missouri Student Teacher's Association and Sigma Kappa social sorority.

As secretary-treasurer of Unity, an organization aimed at strengthening the unity between campus and community groups, Debbie says, "I've learned to work with others."

Through her participation in Sigma Kappa, she says, "I've learned to cope, how to handle problems and how to help others. This type of thing is what I'm interested in. I hope to get my Ph.D. someday and open a clinic."

As the first graduate of her family, Debbie is anxious for graduation. "I'm terribly excited. I know everyone will come to my graduation. Then, I can stand up and say 'Gee, look at me, I've made it!'"

LES DUNSEITH

"My family views education as the great opportunity they never had," says Les Dunseith, a junior mass communication major at NMSU, who hails from Atlanta, Mo., a small, rural farm community located about 20 miles south of Kirksville.

In view of this attitude and following patterns established at Atlanta High School, it's not surprising that Les, who says he's always known he'd go to college, takes advantage of every opportunity to become involved on campus.

This fall Les will serve as editor of the campus newspaper, the Index. In addition, he has served as associate editor and assistant news editor. He's also been involved with layout and writing experiences.

Les describes NMSU as a school that provides a big university involvement with a small college personalization. He says, "Education is a good opportunity. However, the formal institution itself will not get you anywhere. It's the involvement and contacts you make which count."

Being a first family graduate, Les has earned the pride of his family. "My parents are really proud and they are a big support."

"It's kinda neat. My relatives here in Kirksville look at me as the one to point the way for the other kids in the family." There's no doubt Les won't let them down.

Coaches tap 'Dogs for MIAA crown

by Bill Cable

The proverbial monkey has been put squarely on the backs of the NMSU football players. They have been picked by Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association coaches as favorites for the 1978 conference crown.

But several imposing questions were still unanswered as Ron Taylor sent the Bulldogs into what could be one of the most challenging schedules ever encountered by a Purple and White gridiron squad.

For one thing, the fourth-year coach, who unveiled this year's edition Sept. 2 at home against Central Arkansas, needed to find out how a partially rebuilt offensive interior forward wall would perform this autumn. That answer would start unfolding during the September portion of the calendar when NMSU was to be pitted against South Dakota; Akron (Ohio), the 1976 NCAA Division II runnerup; and Eastern Illinois after the opening test.

The 1977 attack ranked third in NCAA Division II rushing and 10th in scoring. However, not only was the NMSU boss minus three key interior linemen, but he also lost the services of two National Football League draftees, tailback Steve Powell and wide receiver Lloyd Henry. Senior second team all-leaguer Mike Harris, who gained 751 yards while alternating with Powell last year, was expected to handle the important ball-carrying slot. Henry's successor hadn't been entirely determined in pre-season drills.

A key to the effectiveness of this year's offense will be the performance of senior quarterback Steve Rampy, who logged an up-and-down campaign as a junior second team all-MIAA choice. While the 1977 rushing attack was usually potent, the aerial game often sputtered. But Rampy generally threw the ball well last spring and in early August practices, so Taylor was encouraged that the veteran signal-caller had regained his old form.

Taylor was concerned about another area. Although most of the defensive alignment was back, both 1977 linebackers, all-MIAA Marti Rave and Garry Geisz, had departed. Taylor shifted all-conference end Pete Grathwohl to plug one of the linebacking gaps. But that move created a hole at Grathwohl's old position.

Going into the curtain-raiser with Central Arkansas, however, there were plenty of pluses. These positive factors might've been primary reasons MIAA coaches gave the nod to the 'Dogs in the summer poll.

Offensively, in addition to Rampy and Harris, holdovers included senior tight end Ezra Thompson, senior guard Darrell Buffington, senior tackle Roland Mangold, junior fullback Larry Sommer and senior flanker Fred "Butch" Beiter. Buffington was tapped for the first all-conference unit, and Thompson landed on the second team last year.

Returning defensive mainstays, besides Grathwohl, were senior All-American nose guard Tony Ippolito, senior all-MIAA tackle Mark Sobol, senior all-league safety Leonard Fagan, senior second team all-conference cornerback Stan Hughes, senior honorable mention all-MIAA tackle Rick McReynolds, junior safety Jeff Pickett and senior end Ernie Jenkins.

The 'Dogs didn't want the 1978 campaign to start in the same manner as 1977 ended. After winning six of their first seven outings last fall, they dropped two of their last four decisions, and tumbled from first to third in the final MIAA standings on the last weekend of the season. The slump may have also cost them an opportunity to compete in the Division II playoffs. NMSU had been rated 10th one week in the NCAA national poll.

Northeast announces new admissions staff

Dr. Ron E. Bennett was appointed director of admissions at the August meeting of the Board of Regents. He replaces Kent Farnsworth who resigned to become dean of students at Muscatine (Iowa) Community College.

Dr. Bennett, a native of Oklahoma, completed his undergraduate work magna cum laude from Oklahoma Baptist University and served as president of the student body there. He also holds the master's and doctor's degrees from Vanderbilt University. For a time, he served as assistant director of admissions at Vanderbilt.

Also new to the Admissions Office are Marti Barker (B.S. 1978) and Donna Newhouse (B.S.E., B.A. 1977; M.A. 1978).

Schwengels dedicate Lincoln Collection

by Cathy Dvorak

A famous Illinoisan admired by an Iowan was honored in Dedication Ceremonies of the Schwengel-Lincoln Collection on April 29 through May 1 at Northeast Missouri State University.

Fred D. (B.S. 1930) and Ethel (B.S. 1932) Schwengel gave the University a collection of 3,000 books, artwork and other memorabilia about President Abraham Lincoln.

Fred D. Schwengel, an eight-term former U.S. Congressman from Iowa, says he wishes to give his collection to his alma mater because he first learned about Lincoln at the University.

He has put together the collection over a lifetime. He has a strong sense of history as shown by his work as president of the U.S. Capitol Historical Society since 1962.

To encourage the use of the collection, the Schwengels have established the annual Lincoln Contest at NMSU. A first, second and third place was awarded in each category of Art, Oratory and Essay to 18 college and high school students on Saturday, April 29.

The Lincoln Collection itself was dedicated at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 30, in the Special Collections Room of Pickler Memorial Library. About 200 persons attended.

It contains a seven-panel series of drawings of the life of Lincoln by Davenport, Iowa, artist Helen J. Hinrichsen. The drawings purchased by the Schwengels for the collection to be on display took her more than 20 years of research to complete.

Another highlight is the actual bill that Schwengel, as a U.S. Congressman, sponsored in 1962 to commemorate the 100th anniversary of Lincoln's first inaugural.

Also in the collection is a steel engraving of the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation. It is a copy of the original drawing in which Lincoln did not hold the pen.

Another unique drawing of Lincoln in the collection is a collotype print by N.C. Wyeth. A limited edition of 175 prints was made from the original charcoal drawing in the Carl Sandburg birthplace historical site. Each print was individually and personally autographed by four living governors of the state of Illinois in 1976.

Schwengel's print, which is number 38, was signed by William G. Stratton, Samuel H. Shapiro, Richard B. Ogilvie and Dan Walker.

Books on Lincoln, as well as other books in the Schwengel Collection on Iowa history and famous women in American history, are also in the Library.

Other topics presented are the Civil War and Lincoln, a multimedia display from Schwengel materials; Fred Schwengel—A Distinguished Career; Lincoln as Many Views as Artists and Commemorative Plates with Lincoln Themes.

In honor of the Schwengel Collection, a State of the Union Address was given by prominent Missouri Republican Thomas B. Curtis of St. Louis. He discussed "The State of the Union—Challenge of the Future" on Sunday, April 30.

A history symposium on Monday, May 1, was established with a Lincoln theme. "Lincoln and His Interpreters" featured three well-known Lincoln historians, including Lavern M. Hamand, professor of history, Eastern Illinois University; Robert W. Johannsen, J.G. Randall Distinguished Professor of History, University of Illinois; and Wayne C. Temple, deputy director, Illinois State Archives.

Lincoln's life shown in murals

A seven-panel series of the life of President Abraham Lincoln was featured during the three-day dedication ceremonies of the Schwengel-Lincoln Collection on April 29 through May 1 at Northeast Missouri State University.

Artist Helen J. Hinrichsen from Davenport, Iowa, completed the drawings after more than 20 years of research into Lincoln's life. Her work and the rest of the 3,000-book collection including other Lincoln memorabilia was dedicated Sunday, April 30.

The Hinrichsen series has found a home in the Special Collection Room of the Pickler Memorial Library with the Schwengel-Lincoln Collection donated by Fred D. Schwengel, a 1930 NMSU alumnus and president of the United States Capitol Historical Society.

Mrs. Hinrichsen was born in Springfield, Ill., and was graduated from the Chicago Art Institute. She also studied at the Art Students' League in New York City and at the Davenport gallery, in addition to her attendance at the historic classes held by Grant Wood.

In the late 1930s, she taught at the Chicago Art Institute and later at the Davenport gallery.

Her works have been in exhibit in Chicago and in many eastern cities including the Whitney Museum in New York City.

The first panel in the series to be at NMSU shows Lincoln reading by an open fireplace in Onstolt's Cooper Shop based on the New Salem, Ill., restoration. Mrs. Hinrichsen took great pains to draw Lincoln in his true proportions including measurement of a desk table with the drawer cut out to fit him at the Metamore (Ill.) Courthouse.

Lincoln never stopped learning, Mrs. Hinrichsen says. Under great difficulties, he would study after long hours of rail splitting, store keeping and surveying.

Another mural depicts a young Lincoln steering a flatboat on the Mississippi River. He made two flatboat trips to the South that caused his anti-slavery feelings to emerge.

A third panel illustrates the wedding of Lincoln and Mary Todd on Nov. 4, 1842, in the Nenian Edwards home in Springfield. Daguerreotypes and silhouettes furnished the likenesses for the guests. The wedding dress was created from research into the fashion of the time since no description was available.

"Springfield, Illinois," is the name of a fourth panel that presents the town in the throes of great excitement. Lincoln and Mayor John Todd are pictured in the foreground. They played a part in the state legislature to get the Capital moved from Vandalia to Springfield.

The fifth panel is entitled "Eighth Judicial Circuit." Judge David Davis and Lincoln traveled the Eighth Judicial Circuit along with a court that moved across 14 Illinois counties.

Lincoln always introduced himself to the newspaper editor in any town he visited. He would ask each editor to tell him how the people thought about the issues of the day such as slavery. A sixth panel is called "Newspapers."

The last scene show the Lincoln Douglas Debates in Illinois which were held in Ottawa, Freeport, Jonesburg, Charleston, Galesburg, Quincy and Alton. The Railsplitter locks horns with the Little Giant.

THE SCHWENDEL-LINCOLN COLLECTION--Fred Schwengel, president of the United States Capitol Historical Society, shows his grandson, Scott Cosby, 10, seven murals about the life of President Abraham Lincoln. The murals, drawn by artist Helen Hinrichsen of Davenport, Iowa, are part of a collection of 3,000 books, numerous pictures, documents and other artwork and memorabilia dedicated Sunday afternoon, April 30, at Northeast Missouri State University. Schwengel and his wife, Ethel, both NMSU alumni, have donated their lifetime collection to the University. It is housed in the Special Collection Room of the Pickler Memorial Library on the Kirksville campus.

AFTER THE DEDICATION CEREMONY--Jim Devitt (left) and Tom Churchwell have their commemorative programs signed by Fred Schwengel while members of the Kirksville and University community view the Lincoln Collection.

LINCOLN SIGNATURE-G.H. Jamison (right), professor emeritus of mathematics, has presented Northeast Missouri State University with an original document featuring the signature of President Abraham Lincoln. Accepting for the University is Dr. Charles J. McClain, president. The document, also signed by E.M. Stanton, Secretary of War, commissions M. Wheeler Sargent as an additional paymaster on Feb. 26, 1864.

The document will be housed with other Lincoln memorabilia recently donated by Fred D. Schwengel, NMSU alumnus and president of the United States Historical Society. That collection open to the public is in the Special Collections Room on the second floor of the Pickler Memorial Library. Mr. Jamison has also presented the University with an autobiography of Theodore Roosevelt autographed by the former President.

IN MEMORIAM

N. Anna Pool Tueckes 1929 of Davenport, Iowa, died April 16, 1978. She had been in failing health for over three years. She is survived by her husband, T. M. Tueckes, D.O., of 2610 Scott St., Davenport.

Dougherty of Dallas, Tex.; three sisters, Mrs. Juell Duren 1933, Mrs. Archie (Marjorie) Walker and Mrs. Bricie (Evelyn) Lewis, all of Fayette, Mo.; a brother, Raymond Dougherty 1933 of Higbee, Mo.; and three grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents and a sister, Gladys Dougherty 1938.

Rose E. Stone Huston 1927 died March 24, 1978, at her home in Bradenton, Florida. Funeral services were held in the Queen of Peace Catholic Church in Ewing, Missouri, with burial in the churchyard cemetery. She is survived by her husband, James Otto Huston 1927, and two sisters, Sybil Wehrmann and Mamie Harris, both of Columbia, Missouri. Mrs. Huston had been a teacher for many years before her retirement.

Arthur L. Streb B.S.E. 1956 and M.A. 1958 of St. Louis, died April 12, 1978, at the age of 47. Mr. Streb was a veteran of the Korean War and for the past 19 years had been a teacher and coach in St. Louis city and county schools. Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Beverly Altrogge Streb, and five children, Arthur, Louis, Susan, Sondra and Cynthia, all of the home. Funeral services were held in St. Louis, with burial in Wells Cemetery, Pleasant Hill, Illinois.

William Wesley Edwards 1957 of Williamstown, Missouri, died April 11, 1978, at the age of 72.

Mary G. Brown 1926, age 94, of Kirksville, died March 19, 1978, in the Adair County Nursing Home, where she had been a patient since May of 1973. She was preceded in death by her husband, Dr. Thomas C. Brown, in 1918. Surviving are one daughter, Amelia Brown Woelfel 1930 of Wallingford, Pennsylvania, and two grandchildren. Mrs. Brown had taught for many years in Missouri schools. She had been an elementary teacher in Kirksville from 1927 until retirement in 1955. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, P.E.O., and Delta Kappa Gamma Society. Private graveside services were held at the Linville Cemetery in Edina. Memorial services were held in the Kirksville First Presbyterian Church.

Jewell Berger Sleight 1928 of Boonville, Mo., died Jan. 15, 1978. We are indebted to Mrs. Sleight's sister, Reba Berger Powell 1931 of Montgomery City, Mo., for this information.

Dr. David Arville Squires 1925 of Columbia, Mo., died June 28, 1978. He received the D.O. degree in 1929 from Kirksville Osteopathic College and started a practice in Fulton that year. Prior to his career in medicine, he spent eight years in education, as a teacher, principal and high school superintendent. Dr. Squires was active in professional affairs, having served as president of the Missouri Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons in 1943 and for eight years was a member and vice president of the board of trustees of KCOM. He was a member of the United Methodist Church of Fulton and was a life member of Central Missouri Osteopathic Association and American Osteopathic Association. Survivors include his wife, the former Mabel M. Fleming, and two daughters, Mrs. Esther Waters of Redwood City, Calif., and Mrs. J.E. (Elizabeth) Deaver of Chula Vista, Calif. Three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren also survive.

Viola Moran Travelute 1935 of Jackson, Wyoming, died July 9, 1978, at the age of 67. She was preceded in death by her husband, Andrew Travelute, in 1968. Mrs. Travelute was a native of the Milan, Missouri area and had taught in the Milan school system for a number of years. She later moved to Phoenix, Arizona, where she continued as a teacher. She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Milan, where funeral services were held, with burial in St. Mary's Cemetery there.

Byron Cosby Jr. 1930 of Washington, D.C., died April 30, 1978, at the age of 66. He was a professor at George Washington University's school of engineering and held a master's degree from the University of Missouri and the Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. Dr. Cosby had taught at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, the U. S. Naval Academy, the University of Iowa and the University of Texas, joining the George Washington faculty 15 years ago. He was a member of the Society of Actuaries, the American Academy of Actuaries, the American Mathematical Society and the Mathematical Association of America. He is survived by a sister, Louise Cosby Quick 1933 of 18 Ashland Rd., Summit, N.J.

James Curtis Smith 1977, age 48, of Granger, Mo., died Sept. 27, 1977, at the Veterans Hospital in Iowa City, Iowa. He is survived by his wife, Mary Hagmeier Smith; his mother, Mrs. Bertha McMillen and step-father, Lester McMillen, of Kahoka, Mo.; two brothers, Lawrence and Frank Smith, both of Granger; two sisters, Mrs. George (Mary) Gonzales 1952 of Granger, and Mrs. Ward (Edna Mae) Robinson, Cantril, Iowa. Three step-brothers, one step-sister and other relatives also survive. Mr. Smith had served in the U. S. Navy for 20 years and was a retired U. S. Navy Chief, STCS (SS). He was a member of the Fleet Reserve Association, the American Legion, the Jim Smith Club, Phi Alpha Theta Historical Society, the Granger School Board, The Granger Town Board and was a Smithsonian Association national member. Funeral services were held at St. Michael's Catholic Church of Kahoka, of which he was a member. Burial, with military rites, was in Granger Cemetery.

Kenneth T. Moore B.S.E. 1935 and M.S. 1955 of Tucson, Ariz., died May 17, 1978, at the age of 65. He had been in failing health for sometime. Mr. Moore had been a teacher for a number of years in Palmyra, Mo., and the states of California and Arizona. He was a member of the Northside Christian Church in Tuscon and the Masonic Lodge, Palmyra. Surviving are his wife, Agnes; one son, Gregory L. Moore of Tempe, Ariz.; one daughter, Jody A. Moore, Tucson, and one brother, Travis Moore, Hannibal, Mo. Graveside services were held in the cemetery at Newark, Mo.

Charles G. Young Jr. 1939, age 61, of Kansas City, died May 22, 1978. Death was attributed to an apparent heart attack. Mr. Young received the J.D. degree from the University of Missouri Law School and had been an attorney in Kansas City. He also served as president of the City National Bank and Trust Company in Kansas City. Later he moved to Dallas, Tex., where he was president of Texas Bank and Trust Company. Two years ago he returned to Kansas City. During World War II, Mr. Young served with the U. S. Army Air Corps. Survivors include his wife, Louise Dunlap Young; a son, Charles Young III of Boston, Mass.; a half-brother, Dr. Ed Bestman; a sister, Katherine (Betty) Emmons; and a brother, Harry B. Young, all of Kirksville. Funeral services were held in Leawood, Kans., with burial in a Kansas City cemetery.

Mrs. Martha McClaskey

Martha Jones McClaskey, (B.S.E., B.A. 1949; M.A. 1950), instructor of English at Northeast Missouri State University, died July 18 in Ellis Fischel State Hospital in Columbia, Mo. She was 53.

Mrs. McClaskey had taught English at NMSU since 1959. Although ill since 1974, she had continued to teach when her health permitted until her final hospitalization March 20.

On Aug. 16, the Missouri Senate passed a resolution in her memory commending Mrs. McClaskey as a "master educator." The resolution was sponsored by Sen. Hardin Cox.

Three educators honored by Phi Delta Kappa

Three emeritus faculty members of Northeast Missouri State University were honored by Phi Delta Kappa professional education honorary at an April 12 banquet marking their 50 or more years of service and leadership to that group.

Dr. Walter A. Browne, professor emeritus of geography; Dr. Walter H. Ryle III, president emeritus; and Dr. Paul O. Selby, dean emeritus of instruction and professor emeritus of business education, were presented plaques of congratulations from the national headquarters in Bloomington, Ind.

According to a Resolution of the 36 Biennial Council held in October in New York, each of the three men has shown a continuous commitment to the ideals of leadership, service, and research in education; has been vital in the early development and growth of Phi Delta Kappa; and has helped in making the fraternity the outstanding professional group that it is today.

Mrs. McClaskey was a 1943 graduate of the American School of Chicago, Ill. She received her Bachelor of Science in Education and Bachelor of Arts degrees from NMSU in 1949, and her master's degree from NMSU in 1959. She did additional graduate work at University of Missouri-Columbia. Before joining the NMSU staff, she taught English at Atlanta and Milan High Schools and Kirksville Junior High.

Honored this spring by Cardinal Key Service Sorority as the Faculty Woman of the Year, Mrs. McClaskey was active in several NMSU organizations. She was a past president of the local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma women's education honorary and longtime sponsor of the International Club. Her name has been listed in the Dictionary of International Biography, published in Cambridge, England, which includes outstanding educators of the world for the past several years.

Mrs. McClaskey was born Oct. 15, 1924, in Murray, Ky., the daughter of John Lee and Vera Leola Hayes Jones. On May 20, 1955, she married Bill Keith McClaskey, who survives. Also surviving are her son, Michael Keith McClaskey, 15; her parents; one sister and one brother.

In recognition of Mrs. McClaskey's service to the University, the Division of Language and Literature has planned two memorials—a book containing letters of tribute to the personal influence of her teachings and a scholarship fund in her name.

Personal letters for the memorial book will be bound and presented to Mrs. McClaskey's son, Mike. Anyone may contribute a letter to the book by sending it to Dr. Connie Sutherland, Division of Language and Literature, Administration-Humanities Building, NMSU, Kirksville, MO 63501. All letters should be mailed before Sept. 25, and should be addressed to Mike.

The Division also has established the Martha Jones McClaskey Scholarship Fund. Contributions to this memorial may be sent to the Division office at the above address.

This scholarship will not be restricted to Language and Literature majors. Recipients will demonstrate a financial need and an interest in literature.

Missouri Senate Honors Larry Moore

Long-time Kansas City television newscaster Larry Moore (B.S.E. 1967), who has accepted a similar position with KPX-TV, CBS in San Francisco, has been honored by the Missouri Senate. He was named Outstanding Alumnus in Communication at Northeast Missouri State University in 1967.

The Senate has approved a resolution introduced by Senator Henry Panethiers of Kansas City citing Moore for his contributions to journalism in the state.

"It is entirely fitting and proper that this legislative body should pause to commend this talented Missourian on his fine decade of service to the people of Kansas City as an objective and informative broadcast journalist," the resolution reads.

A graduate of the University of Missouri with a master's degree in journalism, Moore began his career in journalism as a reporter for the Kirksville Daily Express.

Since 1972, he has anchored the 6 and 10 o'clock news on KMBC-TV in Kansas City, programs which have won top state awards from both the Missouri Broadcasters Association and the Missouri Radio Television News Association.

In San Francisco, Moore will co-anchor the 6 and 11 p.m. news for the fifth largest CBS station in the nation. His appointment there at KPX-TV was effective July 24th.
