Northeast's 125th: Gen. John J. Pershing

John J. Pershing was born in 1860 in Laclede, Mo. During his middle to late teens, the future general sought to help the sagging fortunes of his family and make possible his own education by becoming a teacher.

Pershing attended the First District Normal School in the late 1870s and graduated in 1880 with a bachelor's degree in scientific didactics (technique of teaching).

He received an appointment to West Point shortly after his graduation from the Normal School. He graduated in 1886 with a rank of senior cadet captain, the highest honor

West Point confers. The remainder of his life was spent establishing one of the most outstanding military records in the history of the United States.

His later years were spent in Walter Reed Hospital at Washington, D.C., where he continued a keen interest in every problem of national welfare and national defense. He died on July 15, 1918 and was buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

The Faculty Club Acquires a House

516 Patterson is the new address of the University's Faculty Club. Dr. Shirley Morahan, associate professor of English and president of the club, said the lease on the house was signed just before winter break following a series of discussions with President Warren and Dean of Advancement Eric Staley. Morahan hopes the house will provide a place for both formal and informal gathering of faculty and staff and will "encourage more community and respect among faculty and staff members."

The Faculty Club has been in existence since the fall of 1989. Originally the brainstorm of Morahan and current club secretary Dr. Chet Breed, assistant professor of English, its Board of Directors now includes: Dr. James Harmon, assistant professor of humanities and allied arts, vice president; Dr. Wayne Bailey, associate professor of computer science, former president; Dr. Charles Frost, college professor, Ryle North College and associate professor of justice systems; Dr. Jerrold Hirsch, assistant professor of history; Dr. Janice Grow, professor of education; Dr. Connie Holt Jones, college professor, Ryle South College and professor of English; Dr. Alanna Preussner, associate vice president for academic affairs; and Dr. Gilbert Kohlenberg, emeritus member.

The club's purpose is to provide opportunities for faculty and staff members to come together across division lines to relax or to share thoughts and concerns.

"Divisions come together through committee work but that's still work. They meet in the Georgian Room, provided some one's there, or they congregate around make-shift lounges such as the copy machines. Recognizing that we need a place to go, the general consensus among board members is that the club wouldn't really exist until we had a space," Morahan said.

The signing of the lease in December made this wish of the Faculty Club come true.

With a fixed meeting place, Morahan sees the club's meetings and events becoming more regular and visual. Therefore, it is hoped the house will encourage more involvement and funding. The board's long-term goal is to establish a place with room for small and large events (from social gatherings to forums), that can provide housing for campus guests, and, on a lighter note, provide a place for staff and faculty to eat and visit. These ideas stem from what they have seen of other faculty clubs on such campuses as Yale, Notre Dame, and the University of Massachusetts.

For the time being, the Faculty Club is busy tidying up, performing a furniture drive among members and other donors to furnish the house, and is happy to have a place to call home.

Anyone interested can contact the Faculty Club at the house: 665-8459.

Computer Services will be offering one-day campus computing workshops for the spring semester for faculty and staff. The different workshops will cover introductory information on Pagemaker, Email, INTERNET and DOS systems.

Any faculty or staff interested in the workshops should contact Computer Services at 785-4163 for more information and to register for the classes.

1992 Leadership Awards

The Campus Activities and Organization Center is now accepting nominations for eight leadership awards to be presented at the Presidents' Leadership Banquet on Feb. 17. The awards to be presented are:

- Outstanding President of the Year Award
- Outstanding Organization Award
- Outstanding Residential Leader Award
- New Student Leader Award
- Senior Leadership Award
- Athletic Leadership Award
- Higher Order of Excellence Award
- E.M. Violette Outstanding Advisor of the Year Award

Nomination forms are available at the Campus Activities and Organization Center, SUB and are due by 4:30 p.m. Feb. 3. For more information call 785-4222.

Tutoring Available

The Division of Mathematics and Computer Science will be offering tutoring for spring 1992 classes. There will be a complete list of times and places for the tutoring sessions in the next issue of the Northeast Today.

Until then, students interested in finding out that information can contact the Math and Computer Science Division Office in Violette Hall 287 at 785-4547.

Attention: Grad Students

Are you feeling disconnected or overwhelmed? Can you say the words "thesis" and "internship" without flinching? Do you know any graduate students outside your discipline? Would you like to get together with other grad students for fun and fellowship?

Then please attend a short, informal meeting for all Northeast graduate students Thursday, Jan. 30 at 3:30 p.m. in the SUB Tangerine Room. We'll have refreshments, comfortable chairs, and no formal agenda.

President's Leadership Experience Application Procedures

The President's Leadership Experience provides you with the opportunity to spend two working days with President Warren. Whatever President Warren does during those two days, you will be right there, in on it all.

Two candidates will be chosen for Leadership Experiences this semester. Application is open to any student in good academic standing with a record of, and commitment to, excellence in leadership. To apply, you should submit an essay, 500 words or less, describing your record of leadership on and/or off campus, and your commitment to leadership suggested by professional aspirations. The essay should address why you seek the President's Leadership Experience and how it would prove beneficial to you. Please include address and telephone numbers. A resume (optional) may be included with the essay.

Applications should be submitted at the front desk of the Career Placement Center no later than 5 p.m. on Feb. 5. A selection committee will evaluate applications and determine finalists to be interviewed the week of Feb. 10. The committee's decision shall be final. Selected candidates will be notified by Feb. 14.

Dates for the Leadership Experiences will be chosen to accommodate schedules of both President Warren and the selected students.

National Competition To Be Held

The Division of Fine Arts will present the Fourth Annual National Arts Competition Feb. 6 through March 4 in the University Art Gallery, first floor Ophelia Parrish. An opening reception on will be held on Feb. 6 at 7 p.m. in the Gallery. Regular gallery hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:20 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The juror for this year's competition is Thomas Lawson, artist and critic. Lawson serves as dean of the School of Art at the California Institute of the Arts.

A banquet and presentation by Lawson will be presented in conjunction with the National Art Competition. The banquet will be held on Feb. 1, at 6:30 p.m. in the SUB Alumni Room. The cost is $8, and reservations must be made through the Division Office, 785-4417, by Jan. 28.

Lawson's presentation requires no advance registration and is free and open to the public. His presentation will take place following the banquet, at 8 p.m. in SUB Activities Room.

Financial assistance for this project has been provided by the Missouri Arts Council, a state agency, and the Division of Fine Arts. Additional funding has been provided by The Red Barn Arts League. Special assistance was provided by the Art Club.

Beyond Proposition B by Russell G. Warren

Like most Americans, I began the new year full of resolve to make the best of 1992 in both personal and professional terms. As a state university president whose personal and professional lives are usually one and the same, my resolutions almost all involve attitudes and actions in the big picture of public higher education.

I am resolved, for instance, to resist the temptation to be depressed about the defeat of Proposition B by the citizens of Missouri last November. The issue was presented, the votes were cast, and the results were clear. It is time we move on to the positive opportunities that are available to us in higher education with a realistic and forward-looking appraisal of the landscape.

Since Northeast Missouri State University is well-known for its commitment to accountability through assessment, it is appropriate that I begin these thoughts with our assessment of where higher education seems to be in the post-Proposition B new year.

First, across Missouri, higher education faces the likelihood of no new funding in the current year. Moreover, the specter of additional withholding of public funds looms menacingly over all of us concerned with education, especially students and their parents.

Given the fact that a total of $39,903,477 was withheld from public senior colleges and universities in the current fiscal year (which translates to 9 percent of the state funding budget for Northeast, for instance), and the fact that the recession continues, and the cost of desegregation of the Kansas City schools is still unresolved, the concerns over financing higher education are very real.

Consequently, we are witnessing in our public institutions cutbacks in program funding and, indeed, the elimination of some programs entirely, occurring so quickly that there is no time for process, and morale on our campuses is at an all-time low. Higher education is being reactive mostly without a plan, rather than proactive as is our best nature to be. The alarm has sounded and sent many institutions scurrying without apparent direction.

Second, the cry continues to go out for the reorganization of higher education. The demand is constant: it existed before Proposition B, it was incorporated into B, and it is still with us after the defeat of B. But what are the ramifications of reorganization, what are the costs, what is the political fallout, and, most importantly, what is the effect of reorganization on our students and their families? Putsimply, no one knows.

Third, with the defeat of Proposition B, Missouri is left without a plan for shoring up the crumbling buildings on our campuses. Our physical plants are in terrible shape after years of deferring maintenance because of lack of funds.

Nationally, the costs of deferred maintenance are estimated at $70 billion, while in Missouri public four-year institutions face an overwhelming $177.5 million in deferred maintenance. How will we ever keep a proper roof over our students' heads, let alone provide them with the environment to prepare them to compete in an increasingly aggressive world economy?

Finally, the issue of preparation for the future through higher education for many of our young people may become irrelevant because they will not be able to afford to attend college at all. Before Proposition B, Missouri ranked near the bottom of all states in its public funding for higher education. After the defeat of B, that low ranking has certainly not improved. In 1981, public funding of higher education in Missouri provided 78 percent of budget, while in 1991, that figure had dropped to 66 percent. This trend is not cause for optimism.

Yet, there is no plan in the new year for reversing this trend. There is no plan for state-wide scholarships, grants, or loans to support our bright students in realizing their potential. Tuitions, which in Missouri are well below national averages, will most certainly rise on every campus (and still fall short of need), and higher education will be increasingly only for those who can afford it.

The Governor and the legislative leadership were absolutely correct when they identified the needs of higher education as really issues of economic development. The spiral seems forever downward.

But, in the fresh vision of a new year, I do not think we need to sit back aghast at the creation of additional instability in an already terrible situation. We can, instead, begin to chip away at the challenges we face, and turn them into opportunities to chart a new heading for higher education and its students.

I propose the Missouri legislature and/or the Coordinating Board of Higher Education consider in its current session appointing a state-wide task force to develop a reasonable and coherent package response for implementation during the 1993 legislative session, which might take into account at least the six following initiatives:

1. Support of a state-wide bond issue large enough to address some, if not all, of the deferred maintenance costs on our campuses. If we cannot pay as we go, let us seriously consider borrowing to restore our buildings while interest rates are low. The alternative is to continue deferred maintenance which will be more costly to fund in the future.

2. A plan must be devised which will make available funds to support low income and middle income students and their families in meeting the costs of higher education. Scholarships, grants, and especially low-interest loans should all be considered and evaluated for cost-effectiveness and impact on our future state economy.

3. Fulfillment of the desire of many, as expressed by Governor Ashcroft, to fund higher education based on the accountability of each institution in meeting its defined mission. As our colleges and universities shoulder the burden of a shortage of resources by developing, implementing, and evaluating plans for their own recovery and progress, let them be rewarded by funding based at least in part on how well they accomplish their mission.

4. Let the task force look at identifying, and providing extraordinary funding, for several centers of excellence on our campuses that celebrate what each institution does exceptionally well. Such centers not only reward institutions for their excellence, but also provide examples for other institutions at the national as well as the state level.

5. Let the task force prepare a plan which returns to the voters another form of Proposition B three or four years from now. Give higher education the time to benefit from the first four initiatives and to account for their success, give our economy time to rebound, and develop new legislation which is clearer to the voting public.

6. Let us empower the legislature to support programs, one or more at a time rather than pit one initiative against another. All of us need social services, K-12, roads, urban transit systems, as well as higher education. Providing for only one or more of them in a given year will clear the road for the rest in future years.

Obviously this task force must have a much narrower focus than those that preceded the failure of Proposition B, but there is still room for focus. In fact, others can probably embellish the above list.

This would be a beginning around which everyone could rally. The process of the undertaking alone would allow new ideas to evolve, and would foster a renewed optimism among our citizens. That optimism would allow us to identify our path more clearly, and accountability for success in movement down that path will yield renewed trust in higher education.

As I enter into the new year, I know we can reverse the downward spiral. NMSU and I are committed to doing our part, and we will continue to build on the sound accountability established by Charles McClain. Missouri is blessed with superior leadership in its institutions of higher education and in its political leadership, and we function best as a team, rather than as adversaries.

Together, we can make a significant beginning toward the future today.

Notables

Stephen L. Allen, assistant professor of business administration, has been invited to serve on the editorial board of the Engineering Management Journal, which is the primary research publication of the American Society of Engineering Management.

Marlow Ediger, professor of education, has had the following manuscripts published: "Maps and Globes," in the Middle School Journal; "Philosophy of Education and the Mathematics Curriculum," in Education; and "The Philosophy Arena and Reading," in Reading Improvement.

Warren Gooch, assistant professor of music, will have his original music composition performed at the 1992 Society of Composers, Inc. Region 8 Conference Jan. 31 and Feb. 1. The piece, Movement for Brass Quintet, will be premiered by the University of Idaho (Moscow) Brass Quintet at the Conference which will be jointly hosted by Washington State University and the University of Idaho (Moscow). The piece was one of 18 works selected for performance from a field of more than 150 national and international entries.

Emmanuel Nnadozie, assistant professor of economics, presented a paper, "Can Nigeria Feed Itself by the Year 2000?", at the International Conference on Nigeria in Houston in September 1991. Nnadozie was one of the special invites to the conference.

Seymour Patterson, assistant professor of economics, served as toastmaster for the Jan. 22 meeting of the local Toastmasters Club. Speeches were given by senior Erik Tallberg, and Lee Bates, associate professor of industrial science.

Terry Smith, dean of the colleges, will have his article "It's Deja Vu All Over Again: Assessment in Great Britain" published in the May/June issue of Assessment Update. The article analyzes the current state of outcomes assessment in British higher education.

Clinton Thomas, head athletic trainer, and Jerry Mayhew, professor of exercise science, had their article titled "Prediction of Isokinetic Leg Strength from Anthropometric Dimensions in Male College Athletes" published in Isokinetics and Exercise Science.

New Faculty

This is the fourth in a series of profiles featuring new faculty.

Steven H. Klein, associate professor of accounting, comes to Northeast from St. Louis, where he had been a partner with Deloitte & Touche. Klein received a Bachelor of Science and a Bachelor of Arts from Washington University in 1961 and his master's in accounting in 1962. At NMSU, he is the co-advisor of the Accounting Club and he is also a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Missouri Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Mark Y. Hanley, assistant professor of history, comes to NMSU from Indiana University, where he was an assistant professor. He received his bachelor's from Western State College of Colorado in 1976, his master's from the University of Illinois in 1984 and his doctorate from Purdue University in 1989. Hanley has been published in Religion and American Culture and is currently working on a book manuscript, "Beyond a Christian Commonwealth: The Protestant Quarrel with the American Republic, 1830-1860." He is a member of the American Historical Association and the Society for Historians of the Early Republic.

Donna Ford, assistant professor of biology, comes to Northeast from Washington University, where she was working on her doctorate, which she expects to receive in May 1992. She received her master's from the University of Michigan in 1985 and her bachelor's from Miami University in Ohio in 1982. Ford has been previously published in the American Journal of Botany, has been awarded grants and fellowships for her work and is a member of the American Association of Plant Taxonomists and the Missouri Native Plant Society.

Eric J. Howard comes to NMSU from the University of California-Davis where he was a lecturer. He completed his doctorate in 1990 and his master's in 1985, both from the University of California-Davis. He received his bachelor's in 1983 from California State University-Stanislaus. Howard has been published in the Proceedings of the American Mathematical Society with his work, "Analyticity of Almost Everywhere Differentiable Functions" and is a member of the American Mathematical Society and the Mathematical Association of America.

Woodbadge Completion Ceremony

Northeast's chapter of Alpha Phi Omega national service fraternity recently completed a course consisting of three weekends of study and lectures on leadership skills combined with Boy Scout activities. After completing the three outdoor-camping weekends of study, additional requirements must be met under the guidance of a council approved by coach counselor.

Participants of the program receive a certificate and a Woodbadge scarf, toggle and beads, all of which have a long history in scouting and can only be worn by those individuals who have successfully completed the course and service. The Woodbadge certificates are issued from the National Boy Scout Headquarters.

The following Northeast students were presented with the certificate: Brian Gill, senior math major; Monica Haley, senior math major; Sara Henley, junior music major; Packy Huettman, senior pre-med/biology major; Joe Masek, senior computer science major; and Brian Moore, senior computer science major.

The presentations were made by Council Woodbadge faculty from Columbia, Boonville and Jefferson City and included Linda Caraway, Woodbadge faculty from NMSU and Alpha Phi Omega Scouting Advisor.

Notes

The Student Health Clinic will have new physician-on-duty hours starting Feb. 1, 1992. George Pipes, D.O., will be available 8 a.m.-1 p.m. Monday through Friday. Women's Health will be offered 8:30-11:30 a.m. on Thursdays. Regular clinic hours will remain as 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The Sophomore Writing Experience will be offered on the following dates: Jan. 31; Feb. 2, 5, 7, 12, 14, 21, 23, 26, 28; March 2 and 8. All graduating seniors or students who wish to take Comp. II during the summer must take the SWE by Feb. 7. All students who wish to take Comp. II next fall must take the SWE by Feb. 28. For more information, contact the Writing Center in McClain Hall 303 at 785-4484.

Seniors: Careers '92, a national, selective, by-invitation job fair, will be held at the Chicago Hilton & Towers Feb. 27 and 28. To apply for an invitation, send resume and (optional) cover letter specifying career interests, special achievements, etc., to Dept. CH1, P.O. Box 1852, New Haven, CT 06508 by Feb. 1. No attendance fee is charged. Free transportation available through the CPC for those invited. See CPC Hotfile for additional information.

Journalism students may apply for the William B. Ruggles Scholarship sponsored by the National Right to Work Committee. Applicants must submit an essay demonstrating an interest in and a knowledge of the Right to Work principle. Applications are available in the Financial Aid Office, McClain Hall 100. Deadline is March 31, 1992.

Scholarship applications from the Society of Manufacturing Engineers are available in the Financial Aid Office, McClain Hall 100. Thirteen $500 scholarships will be awarded to full-time undergraduate students in manufacturing engineering or manufacturing engineering technology. One $1,000 scholarship will be awarded to a full-time undergraduate student seeking a career in robotics/automated systems. Application deadline is March 1, 1992.

Missouri Teacher Education Scholarship applications for the 1992-93 school year are now available in the Financial Aid Office, McClain Hall 100. Applicants must be Missouri residents in their freshman or sophomore year majoring in education. Information on additional requirements and conditions are available from the Financial Aid Office. The application deadline is February 15, 1992.

Scholarship applications for the 1991-92 Applegate/Jackson/Parks Future Scholarship are available in the Financial Aid Office, McClain Hall 100. This $1,000 scholarship is sponsored by Concerned Educators Against Forced Unionism and is open to undergraduate education majors. Applications must be submitted between Jan. 1 and April 30, 1992.

Financial Aid applicants—NOW is the time to pick up your ACT Family Financial Statement packets for the 1992-93 school year in the Financial Aid Office, McClain Hall 100. You must complete this application if you wish to apply for the Pell Grant, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, Perkins Loan, Workstudy, Stafford Student Loan (formerly Guaranteed Student Loan) or Missouri Grant. Apply early. Call the Financial Aid Office at 785-4130 or stop by if you have questions or would like to make an appointment.

Graduating seniors intending to enroll in a graduate or professional school may be eligible to apply for a $7,000 fellowship from the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi. Students graduating between August 1991 and August 1992 with a cumulative GPA of 3.5 or above are encouraged to contact NMSU Phi Kappa Phi chapter Secretary Paul Parker in McClain Hall 231 for more details. All materials, including three letters of recommendations, must be submitted by Feb. 10.

Non-traditional women students (age 30 or above) are invited to apply for various scholarships administered by the Business and Professional Women's Foundation. Scholarships are also available for women ages 25 and older studying in health care fields. In addition, women seeking education in graduate business studies may apply for low-interest loans through the BPWF. Information on all of these programs is available in the Financial Aid Office, McClain Hall 100.

A one-hour course covering NMSU's electronic mail, conferences and campus-wide information system will be offered Jan. 29 at 7 p.m. A sign-up sheet will be located at the lab desk in Violette Hall 248.

Strategies For Your Job Search, a six-week, non-credit course, will be offered by Ray Haas, director of human resources at KOMC. It will focus on methods for developing job skills, establishing competitive/marketable credentials, networking, interviewing, resume construction and writing cover letters. The course meets Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 5:30-6:45 beginning Jan. 28. Ophelia Parrish 111. Class fee is $19 for 15 hours of instruction.

A travel/study abroad program sponsored by the Division of Business and Accountancy will be offered from May 10-28 for six credit hours. Visits will be made to the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Germany, France and Switzerland. The trip will combine study and field trips related to the dramatic economic changes evolving in Europe. An informational meeting will be held at 6 p.m. on Jan. 28 in Violette Hall 111. All majors are welcome. Contact Mary Giovannini, Violette Hall 107 at 785-4365 or the Division of Business and Accountancy office, Violette Hall 182 at 785-4346 for more information.

Any student interested in participating in the Tel-Alumni Campaign for the Education Division on Feb. 2-6 should contact the Field Experiences Office in Violette Hall 258 at 785-4397.

Toastmasters International is an organization that helps people improve their speaking and presentation skills. The Kirksville chapter meets every Wednesday at 6 p.m. in Barnett Hall 223. For more information call Erik Tullberg at 665-6475 or Seymour Patterson at 785-4360.

Winter Kickball, sponsored by SAB will be from 8-4 p.m. Feb. 15-16 at the practice football field. Sign-up now in the SAB Office. The cost is $4 for teams with 5 or more SAB stickers and $5 for teams with less than 5 SAB stickers. First prize is a pizza party.

Currently enrolled students living off-campus should pick up their W-2 at the payroll window, McClain Hall 105 beginning Jan. 27. W-2's for international students are at the International Students Office in Kirk Memorial. W-2's for currently enrolled students living in the residence hall will be in the residence hall mail boxes Jan. 27. All W-2's not picked up by Jan. 31 will be mailed to the home address that is on file in the Payroll Office.

Housekeeper Betty McClellan retired Jan. 1 after working in Missouri Hall for 23 years. Residents of the hall photographed her vacuuming first floor north lounge on her last day. The residents say that she will be missed.
